Long Economic Curbs Predicted

Confusion Over Economic Freeze Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite President Nixon's prediction that America will comply voluntarily with his wage-price-rent freeze, an Associated Press spot check indicates the public still is confused about what the freeze requires.

The man in the street still asks such questions as, "Will I get my raise?" This is despite a week-long flurry of official, highly publicized rulings that in nearly every case was a flat "no."

To answer the public's questions the government has converted Internal Revenue Service taxpayer assistance offices in 380 cities into local wage-price service and complaint centers.

To find out what the public is asking, Associated Press bureaus in a half-dozen major cities asked a sampling of citizens for their questions on the freeze.

Here is a selection of questions, with answers based on official policy rulings and policymakers' statements:

Q. I was given a raise effective Aug. 15, the day Nixon spoke. I was working at the new rate—I was at work in fact—when the President issued the order. Will I get the raise? asks a Los Angeles man.

A. No. Unless your raise was in effect Aug. 14 you may not receive any increase except for a bona fide promotion, for completing educational requirements such as a teacher's degree or for certain military bonuses such as hostile-fire pay or proficiency pay.

Q. What about longevity raises? asks a San Francisco resident.

A. They are not allowed, nor are cost-of-living increases.

Q. What about fringe benefits?

A. They may not be increased, whether or not there is any direct cash payment. These are considered compensation.

Q. Is it really going to be across the board, or will a lot of exceptions be made? asks a New York municipal worker.

A. This remains to be seen.

Almost no exceptions have been made on wages, a few more on prices. Prices may rise on interest rates, stocks, bonds, raw agricultural commodities such as fresh fruits and vegetables, state and local taxes, school tuitions if the increase was already announced, and exports.

Q. From Philadelphia: If an auto insurance policy expires before Nov. 12, the end of the freeze, can a company charge a higher rate than had been approved before Aug. 14?

A. Yes, provided a substantial number of policies were written at the rate before the freeze took effect. No rate increases may be granted during the freeze, however.

Q. A union contract was negotiated before Aug. 14 but not approved by the membership until a day or two after the freeze. It provided for retroactive pay to the time the contract expired July 1. Can these raises be collected after the freeze is lifted?

A. Probably not. The raise may not go into effect at least until after the freeze, and retroactive payments covering the freeze period are expressly forbidden. The government has not ruled on whether retroactive pay for the July 1-Aug. 14 period is permissible. It would have been if the contract had been ratified before the freeze.

Q. From Seattle: How does one seek an exemption from the freeze? When will OEP begin granting exemptions?

A. Those seeking exemptions should write the regional office of the Office of Emergency Preparedness. Only those suffering "gross inequities" need apply. There is no indication when the complaint-swamped OEP will respond.

Q. Will prices jump after the freeze is over?

Post-Freeze Plans Unsure, Connally Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary John B. Connally says the government is likely to retain some economic controls after the 90-day wage-price freeze expires.

"I think it's highly unlikely, it still remains a possibility but I think it's highly unlikely," that all controls will be lifted, he said Monday in an ABC interview.

"I would think there would have to be more than that," he said. "What it will be, how intensive it will be, how pervasive it will be, what it will be called, I don't know."

"One of the principal advantages it seems to me of the wage-price freeze," said President Nixon's chief economic spokesman, "is to cause the American people to halt for a moment and think about what they are doing to themselves with this constant stair-stepping of wages and costs and price increases...."

One reason for labor dissatisfaction with the new Nixon package is that the freeze does not cover interest rates, especially on home mortgages. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board called a news conference today to "discuss a rise in mortgage interest rates and several steps being taken to stabilize these rates...."

Meanwhile, four Catholic University law professors filed a federal suit in Washington charging that Congress, by passing the 1970 Economic Stabilization Act, unconstitutionally gave the President authority to clamp on the freeze.

The suit, thought to be the first against the new economic policy, charges Congress "totally and unrestrictedly delegated to the executive its legislative power to decide whether or not general wages and prices shall (Continued on Page 14)

My Lai Tapes To Be Played At Court Martial

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — The bloody story of Charlie Company's assault on My Lai will be retold at the court-martial of Col. Oran K. Henderson with a new twist: the jury will hear recordings of radio transmissions during the attack.

The tapes were made in the crowded operations center of Task Force Barker the morning of March 16, 1968, when the 107-man company—a unit in the 11th Brigade commanded by Henderson—swept through the South Vietnamese village. Henderson's lawyers concede that 100-150 villagers died that day. The colonel, who will be 51

Wednesday, is charged with being derelict in willfully failing to investigate reports of a massacre and later lying to an Army board of inquiry. If convicted he could be sentenced to six years in prison, loss of pay and discharge.

Charlie R. Lewellen, 32, night duty officer for Task Force Barker, testified in the trial's opening day Monday that he recorded transmissions from three combat radios for personal use as training aids.

Lewellen, a former captain, now is employed in Temple Tex., by the Central Texas Councils of Government.

By coincidence, he was company commander of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. at Ft. Benning, Ga. when the lieutenant—who led one of the platoons at My Lai—was charged with mass murder. Calley was convicted of killing 22 civilians at My Lai and sentenced to life imprisonment—a term that was reduced in the continuing review process to 20 years.

Three other veterans of the attack were tried and acquitted by court-martial and another trial, that of company commander Capt. Ernest Medina, is under way at Ft. McPherson, Ga.

Lewellen told a newsman he played the tapes for the board of inquiry headed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers and at various other pretrial investigations. But the tapes have not been heard at any of the series of My Lai trials.

Col. Peter S. Wondolowski, the trial judge, said the recordings will be played later for the jury of two generals and five colonels trying Henderson.

Campaign Spending Case Opens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Common Cause, the self-styled citizens' lobby, has won a court ruling which could open up 30 years of campaign-financing secrets of the major political parties.

Barrington D. Parker refused Monday to dismiss a Common Cause lawsuit seeking to force the parties to abide by the legal limits of $5,000 per contribution and $13 million spending per year by a party.

Unless the Democratic, Republican or Conservative parties succeed in a possible interlocutory appeal, the ruling opens the way for the taking of depositions from party officials and then a trial.

Parker declared in his ruling "the court believes that the general allegations do state violations of the letter and spirit of the statutes."

A trial would determine whether the parties actually committed the offenses Common Cause alleges and then court would rule on a request that the parties be enjoined from repeating them.

Common Cause, headed by John W. Gardner, contends the parties have long used various tricks to get around spending and contribution limits.

Thieu Rejects Call To Quit Made By Ky

Crisis Deepens; American Troops Put On Alert

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command put the 220,000 American troops in Vietnam on special alert today as the political crisis over South Vietnam's presidential election deepened.

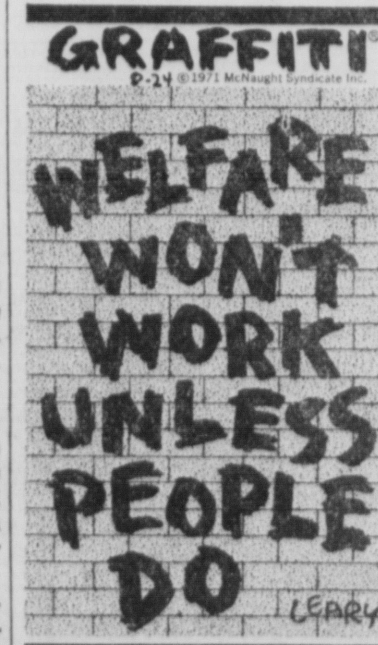

Sources close to President Nguyen Van Thieu said he had rejected Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's proposal that they both resign so that a successor could call a new election in which Thieu would have more opposition. The sources said the president was determined to hold the voting as scheduled on Oct. 3 even if he was the only active candidate.

Anticipating street demonstrations and possibly terrorist attacks, the U.S. Command ordered American military personnel to stay out of cities and towns except when on official business and to travel only in official vehicles.

The American forces were put on a "gray" alert, the second lowest category calling for a "heightened state of readiness," and a spokesman said the order probably would remain in effect until after the election Sunday of a new lower house for the National Assembly.

Thieu was believed to have advised U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker of his opposition to Ky's proposal at a meeting Monday night, and there was speculation as to what the United States would do now. U.S. officials said last week that if Thieu ran unopposed, the U.S. government would reconsider its Vietnam policy, including the aid program.

Thieu once again became the only active candidate when Ky announced Monday that he would not campaign—despite having been reinstated on the ballot by the Supreme Court—because he believed Thieu was rigging the election.

School Lunch Endangered By Policy, Directors Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — The school lunch directors of 37 states have accused the Department of Agriculture of bringing school lunch programs to "a screaming halt" less than a month before classes reopen.

New school lunch regulations announced by USDA Aug. 13 set spending ceilings that are "unequivocally inadequate," said the directors.

If the regulations are not changed before they are issued in final form about Sept. 1, the directors said, they will "result in a termination of programs in many places," and will "preclude any expansion to reach the additional estimated 3 million to 5 million hungry children in America."

The directors issued their statement Aug. 7, three days after Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng gave them a preview of the regulations in a speech to the American School Food Service Association convention in Minneapolis.

The regulations place greater restrictions on how state school lunch directors may spend the federal money they get and, the directors said, give them less to spend.

In his speech, Lyng said the federal government administers more than $1 billion in child nutrition programs and "we must have discipline if we're going to live within our budgets."

Mutiny Toll Reaches 38

SEOUL (AP) — The death toll in the bloody mutiny by 24 convicts rose to 38 today and five persons were still missing, the Defense Ministry reported.

The ministry said the convicts were "special military prisoners" on Shimli Island, in the Yellow Sea 15 miles offshore.

After killing at least 13 of the 23 military prison guards on the island Monday, they hijacked a fishing boat, landed in Inchon, and commandeered a bus in which they rode to Yongdungpo, an industrial suburb of Seoul. The bus ran up on the sidewalk, and troops and police surrounded it. Firing broke out, and the escapees began exploding grenades.

The blasts killed 14 convicts and a 5-year-old girl, and wounded the child's mother, two other civilians and three of the convicts.

Amid the initial confusion, the Counter-Espionage Operations Command announced that the convicts were North Korean agents. This caused the U.S. and South Korean military forces to go on an alert until the report was corrected.

Pentagon Orders Increased Job Help For Servicemen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by President Nixon, the Pentagon has ordered a 50-per-cent increase in a program to prepare undereducated and unskilled servicemen for civilian jobs after discharge.

Pentagon officials indicated about 75,000 men, many of them combat troops, will receive special skill training under the expanded Project Transition that may cost $100 million or more.

The Army recently was directed to send a task force "to establish Transition in Vietnam on a crash basis." And stepped up efforts will be made in other overseas areas and in the United States.

Job counseling, educational help, vocational training and job-finding aid will be provided to men who volunteer for the program in advance of their discharge from the service. Along with the rest, it will be open to men being treated for drug abuse.

Priority goes to men with less than a high school education or its equivalent and to those "who have served in a combat or other occupational specialty whose job prospects are poor because of the lack of a civilian skill."

After screening, volunteers will be sent to a number of skill centers to be established by the Army, Navy and Air Force in the United States. Men may be pulled off their normal military assignments for this special help 60 days before discharge. Or, if they wish, they may remain in service up to 60 days.

Escapee Arrested At Columbus Home

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The FBI has announced the arrest of William Morton, 46, an escapee from the Federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

Morton, arrested at his Columbus home Monday, escaped from the penitentiary, where he had been serving an 18-month sentence for violating federal firearms laws, on July 26.

Red Battery In North Hit

SAIGON (AP) — American fighter-bombers attacking another anti-aircraft battery in North Vietnam triggered numerous secondary explosions, the U.S. Command reported today and B52 heavy bombers dropped nearly 600 tons of explosives along the demilitarized zone.

Fighting continued for the 12th day along the DMZ Monday, with 37 North Vietnamese reported killed. Many of them were the victims of U.S. fighter-bombers and artillery. Four South Vietnamese troops were reported killed and 25 wounded.

Viet Cong forces shelled the big U.S. helicopter base at Phu Loi, 12 miles north of Saigon. The U.S. Command said less than five rockets hit the base, wounding some Americans but causing no fatalities. Field reports said a few helicopters were damaged.

The air attack inside North Vietnam Monday afternoon, two miles north of the DMZ, was the 52nd so-called "protective reaction" strike against North Vietnam this year.

Capt. James D'Entremont of the U.S. Command said the anti-aircraft battery fired on an unarmed American reconnaissance jet and the two F4 Phantom fighter-bombers escorting the photo plane attacked the battery. He said none of the U.S. aircraft was hit, but the numerous secondary explosions reported by the pilots indicated direct hits on the anti-aircraft battery or on ammunition stored there.

D'Entremont said it was the third time since Aug. 8 that U.S. reconnaissance planes have been fired on in the area.

The Food and Drug Administration, which is responsible for general sanitation and manufacturing practices at food plants, had not inspected the Campbell plant in Paris, Tex., for two years. The Bon Vivant plant in Newark, N.J., had gone uninspected for four years.

USDA, responsible for continuous inspection during packing of canned goods containing certain percentages of meat and poultry, had two inspectors present in the Campbell plant while the soup was processed.

Kroh, of Warren, Ind., allegedly was involved in a fist fight Saturday night with Fred Moore, 39. Moore died of a hemorrhage after the incident.

Ohio Senate Puts Self In Corner Over Tax Question

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Ways and Means Committee resumes discussion of a budget-tax bill today amid speculation it is working itself into the same predicament that faced the House.

Closed-door meetings of both the Finance Committee and the Ways and Means Committee went into the late hours last night.

"We're doing the same thing the House did," a Republican senator commented. "The policy seems to be to wear everybody down to get something on the floor that will pass."

There were indications that the Ways and Means Committee, studying taxing aspects of the $8 billion plus House-passed tax-appropriations measures, was leaning toward a personal income tax once again.

Sen. Michael Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, Ways and Means chairman, said he didn't believe a homestead exemption for the elderly or a real estate property tax rollback could be financed with a one per cent increase in sales tax.

The sales tax hike is one of three possible revenue measures being weighed by the Senate GOP leadership.

The others: —A scaled-down version of the personal-corporation income tax bill passed by the House, which was in turn a scaled-down version of the measure sought by Gov. John Gilligan.

Gilligan wanted a one-to-eight per cent tax on both personal and corporate income. The House gave him one-to-four per cent on personal income, one-to-eight per cent on corporations.

—A continuation of month-by-month interim budgets until legislative leaders can determine what effects the federal austerity program will have on state government.

Sen. Theodore Gray, R-3 Piqua, said the deficits in the two interim budgets thus far, plus any in the near future, could be financed by a one-half per cent increase in the sales tax.

The House, with the GOP holding a 54-45 margin, boxed itself in on taxes by first passing a $7.8 billion budget. It later produced a $1.5 billion tax package to finance it.

House Speaker Charles Kurfess, R-4 Perrysburg, who voted for both the budget bill and the taxes, was rebuked by Gilligan later after he charged the administration with "massive spending."

"Mr. Kurfess," Gilligan said, "voted for the bill." Gilligan also challenged Gray, saying that if the Senate leader has an alternative bill, "let him put it on the floor."

The governor, meanwhile, has (Continued on Page 14)

School Lunch Endangered By Policy, Directors Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — The school lunch directors of 37 states have accused the Department of Agriculture of bringing school lunch programs to "a screeching halt" less than a month before classes reopen.

If the regulations are not changed before they are issued in final form about Sept. 1, the directors said, they will "result in a termination of programs in many places," and will "preclude any expansion to reach the additional estimated 3 million to 5 million hungry children in America."

"Fiscal discipline is always difficult, but it is absolutely essential," he said, adding that it may be a "gross understatement" to say that "everybody will not agree with the law."

Leaders of antihunger organizations said the new regulations caught the school lunch directors by surprise.

Lyng said Monday night it would be "presumptuous to comment on what we will eventually do until we get comment from them." The deadline for the directors to file their comments is Aug. 28.

The ASFSA would like to see 100 per cent federal funding for all school lunches, Lyng said, adding, "We view the school lunch program as a partnership between the state and federal governments, local school districts and the parents of children. That's a fundamental disagreement I suppose, in the concept of the school lunch program."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by President Nixon, the Pentagon has ordered a 50-per cent increase in a program to prepare undereducated and unskilled servicemen for civilian jobs after discharge.

Pentagon officials indicated about 75,000 men, many of them combat troops, will receive special skill training under the expanded Project Transition that may cost $100 million or more.

The Army recently was directed to send a task force "to establish Transition in Vietnam on a crash basis." And stepped up efforts will be made in other overseas areas and in the United States.

Job counseling, educational help, vocational training and job-finding aid will be provided to men who volunteer for the program in advance of their discharge from the service. Along with the rest, it will be open to men being treated for drug abuse.

Priority goes to men with less than a high school education or its equivalent and to those "who have served in a combat or other occupational specialty whose job prospects are poor because of the lack of a civilian skill."

Soup Probe Demanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal has urged a congressional investigation of federal food-inspection programs because of the discovery twice in two months of soup contaminated with botulism toxin.

The New York Democrat, who was chairman of a consumer investigative subcommittee until reorganization killed the panel this year, accused the agencies Monday of "an incredible abuse of their responsibility to protect the consumer from unsafe products."

Campbell Soup Co. announced Sunday it was recalling 200,000 cans of chicken vegetable soup packed July 15 and found contaminated with botulism toxin. Vichyssoise packed by Bon Vivant on May 21 was blamed for the botulism death a month later of a New York man.

The Food and Drug Administration, which is responsible for general sanitation and manufacturing practices at food plants, had not inspected the Campbell plant in Paris, Tex., for two years. The Bon Vivant plant in Newark, N.J., had gone uninspected for four years.

USDA, responsible for continuous inspection during packing of canned goods containing certain percentages of meat and poultry, had two inspectors present in the Campbell plant while the soup was processed.

Mutiny Toll Reaches 38

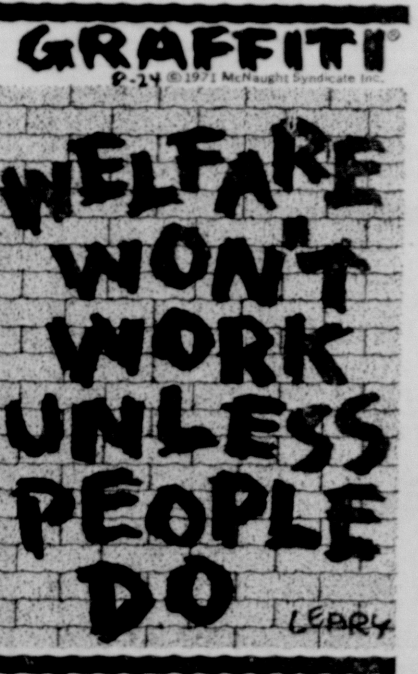

SEOUL (AP) — The death toll in the bloody mutiny by 24 convicts rose to 38 today and five persons were still missing, the Defense Ministry reported.

The ministry said the convicts were "special military prisoners" on Shimli island, in the Yellow Sea 15 miles offshore.

After killing at least 13 of the 23 military prison guards on the island Monday, they hijacked a fishing boat, landed in Incheon, and commandeered a bus in which they rode to Yong-dungpo, an industrial suburb of Seoul. The bus ran up on the sidewalk, and troops and police surrounded it. Firing broke out, and the escapees began exploding grenades.

The blasts killed 14 convicts and a 5-year-old girl, and wounded the child's mother, two other civilians and three of the convicts.

Amid the initial confusion, the Counter-Espionage Operations Command announced that the convicts were North Korean agents. This caused the U.S. and South Korean military forces to go on an alert until the report was corrected.

Ohio Senate Puts Self In Corner Over Tax Question

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Ways and Means Committee resumes discussion of a budget-tax bill today amid speculation it is working itself into the same predicament that faced the House.

Closed-door meetings of both the Finance Committee and the Ways and Means Committee went into the late hours last night.

"We're doing the same thing the House did," a Republican senator commented. "The policy seems to be to wear everybody down to get something on the floor that will pass."

There were indications that the Ways and Means Committee, studying taxing aspects of the $8 billion plus House-passed tax-appropriations measures, was leaning toward a personal income tax once again.

Sen. Michael Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, Ways and Means chairman, said he didn't believe a homestead exemption for the elderly or a real estate property tax rollback could be financed with a one per cent increase in sales tax.

The sales tax hike is one of three possible revenue measures being weighed by the Senate GOP leadership.

The others:

—A scaled-down version of the personal-corporation income tax bill passed by the House, which was in turn a scaled-down version of the measure sought by Gov. John Gilligan.

Gilligan wanted a one-to-eight per cent tax on both personal and corporate income. The House gave him one-to-four per cent on personal income, one-to-eight per cent on corporations.

—A continuation of month-by-month interim budgets until legislative leaders can determine what effects the federal austerity program will have on state government.

Sen. Theodore Gray, R-3 Piqua, said the deficits in the two interim budgets thus far, plus any in the near future, could be financed by a one-half cent increase in the sales tax.

The House, with the G O P holding a 54-45 margin, boxed itself in on taxes by first passing a $7.8 billion budget. It later produced a $1.5 billion tax package to finance it.

House Speaker Charles Kurfess, R-4 Perrysburg, who voted for both the budget bill and the taxes, was rebuked by Gilligan later after he charged the administration with "massive spending."

"Mr. Kurfess," Gilligan said, "voted for the bill." Gilligan also challenged Gray, saying that if the Senate leader has an alternative bill, "let him put it on the floor."

The governor, meanwhile, has

Government Boosts Funds For Mortgages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government moved today to put more money into the housing market in an effort to stabilize interest rates and make more money available for lending.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced plans to free $800 million by savings and loan associations to increase the availability of funds for home loan lending.

It did so by reducing the minimum liquidity requirements, the amount of cash and securities that federally insured savings and loan associations must keep on hand, from 7½ to 7 per cent.

At the same time, the board's companion corporation, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage government-backed mortgage Corp., announced it was putting $300 million into purchases of interest rates.

That action will reduce by three points the amount that sellers must pay on FHA-VA loans when mortgages are sold in the secondary market through the mortgage loan corporation.

In addition, the corporation is increasing its activity in purchasing participations in conventional loans by putting another $700 million into the conventional loan market.

The board said that action will reduce interest rates on conventional loans from 7 per cent to 7½ per cent.

Preston Martin, chairman of the Home Loan Bank Board which regulates the savings and loan industry, said the action is meant as a signal to mortgage lenders that the board is determined to provide sufficient funds for mortgage lending, thereby reducing upward pressure on interest rates.

He said the board's action "is in lieu of a freeze on mortgage interest rates."

Dow Jones Tops 900

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rally rolled on today, carrying the Dow Jones industrial average past the psychologically important 900 level. Trading was moderately active.

The noon average of 30 industrials was up 8.39 points at 900.77. Last week's strong rally was turned back at 900. Advances on the New York Stock Exchange led declines by more than 5 to 2.

The gainers included steels, rubber issues, mail order-retail, farm implements, electronics, metals, oils, airlines and glamour stocks. All other groups were mixed.

Fueling the advance, analysts said, was the very positive investor psychology created last week by the Nixon administration's announcement of a fundamental shift in economic policies.

Brokers said another possible stimulant was the government's move today to inject more money into the housing market.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — About 1,530 coal miners remained on strike today at eight Consolidation Coal Co. mines in southwest Pennsylvania, as pickets pledged to spread the walkout to the firm's other mines in Ohio and West Virginia.

The walkout began at the Renton Mine in nearby Plum Borough to protest the firing of a member of United Mine Workers Local 1993.

At midnight Sunday, pickets closed the firm's Mathies, Montour, Oakmont and Harmar mines, and by Monday afternoon, had also closed the Champion, Hutchinson and Westland mines.

The portals are located in Washington, Allegheny and Westmoreland Counties.

Union sources indicated Monday that roving pickets would travel to West Virginia and Ohio but none of the Consolidation Mines in those states were reported closed Monday evening.

Confusion . . .

(Continued from Page 1) of wartime price controls a price jump after the freeze is almost certain unless the government extends some kind of restraints.

Q. Are prices on foreign goods going up to stay?

A. One way or another, probably yes. The President imposed a 10-per-cent import duty surcharge that is temporary but indefinite.

Q. If an auto dealer customarily offers discounts from list price, must he continue to offer such discounts during the freeze?

A. Yes. For all goods the general rule is that the price ceiling is that price at or above which 10 per cent of transactions were conducted in the 30 days before Aug. 14. This includes discounted prices.

Q. Can a food store go over all its records in 30 days prior to Aug. 14 and raise prices on all items to the highest charged in that period without regard to current charges?

A. Some prices may go up, especially if the merchant was caught with an exceptionally low sale price in effect at the start of the freeze. The 10-per-cent, 30-day rule applies here, too.

Q. Some complain the President did not freeze interest and profits. Did he have authority to do so?

A. Interest yes, profits no. A 1969 law gives him authority to ask the Federal Reserve Board to control interest and credit, but a ceiling on profits or dividends would require enactment of something like the wartime excess-profits tax, no longer on the books.

Q. May a restaurant raise prices to cover the increased costs of foods which are allowed to fluctuate?

A. No. They must absorb the loss if food prices go up, but may pocket the profit if the price goes down.

Government Boosts Funds For Mortgages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government moved today to put more money into the housing market in an effort to stabilize interest rates and make more money available for lending.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced plans to free $800 million by savings and loan associations to increase the availability of funds for home loan lending.

It did so by reducing the minimum liquidity requirements, the amount of cash and securities that federally insured savings and loan associations must keep on hand, from 7 1/2 to 7 per cent.

That action will reduce by three points the amount that sellers must pay on FHA-VA loans when mortgages are sold in the secondary market through the mortgage loan corporation.

In addition, the corporation is increasing its activity in purchasing participations in conventional loans by putting another $700 million into the conventional loan market.

According to the report of Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Don Thompson, Morrison lost control in a curve, went left of center and then off the right side of the road into a field.

No one was injured in the mishap. Cited by Deputy Thompson for driving left of center, Morrison was fined $15 and costs by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb today.

Susan Elaine Dulin, 25, 332 Long St., was fined $15 and costs in Municipal Court for failure to yield the right of way.

In court action yesterday, three men were fined $150 and costs, had their drivers licenses suspended for six months and were sentenced to 30 days in jail with 27 days of the sentences suspended. They were William Hutchinson, 31, Pataskala, George McGlone, 51, Ashville, and Hugh L. Lyon, 24, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Stephen Heeter, 31, 121 Walnut St., was fined $25 and costs for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

Motorists who forfeited bonds Monday when they failed to appear in court were:

Paul E. Cornwell, 29, 106 1/2 Franklin St., Arthur L. Timmons, 29, Stoutsville, both $19 for operating cars with defective exhaust systems; Don E. Garrison, 51, Williamsport, Mary R. Tolbert, 56, Route 1, Alice Dickinson, 63, 2075 Chippewa Drive, all $24 for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone; Jack Lemon, 51, Ashville, $29 for speeding 76 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone; George R. Dumm, 25, Laurelville, Fred Shires Jr., 42, 144 Pontious Lane, $19 for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone; Terry Lee Sowers, 29, 129 Logan St., $19 for making unnecessary noise with a motor vehicle.

Minor injuries resulted in a two-car accident Monday investigated on Route 56 south of Circleville by the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Not part of the actual collision but involved in the accident was a road roller operated by a State Highway Department employee, Charles Wolfe. E. Ohio St.

Patrolmen were informed that Ruby Hart, 43, Route 1, South Bloomingville was headed north on Route 56 when the road roller backed out of a private drive into her lane of travel. Mrs. Hart braked and swerved her vehicle to the left into an auto operated by Earsel Wallace, 59, Vienna, Ohio. The roller operator apparently continued out of the drive and north along the freeway despite the collision. He was later cited for failure to yield.

Two injuries were reported to passengers in Mrs. Hart's auto, Peggy and Pamela Hart. They were taken to Berger Hospital where they received treatment and were released. Both autos received moderate front end damage and had to be towed from the scene.

Coal Strike Spread Seen

PITTSBURGH (AP) — About 1,530 coal miners remained on strike today at eight Consolidation Coal Co. mines in southwest Pennsylvania, as pickets pledged to spread the walkout to the firm's other mines in Ohio and West Virginia.

The walkout began at the Renton Mine in nearby Plum Borough to protest the firing of a member of United Mine Workers Local 1993.

At midnight Sunday, pickets closed the firm's Mathies, Montour, Oakmont and Harmar mines, and by Monday afternoon, had also closed the Champion, Hutchinson and Westland mines.

The portals are located in Washington, Allegheny and Westmoreland Counties.

Union sources indicated Monday that roving pickets would travel to West Virginia and Ohio but none of the Consolidation Mines in those states were reported closed Monday evening.

of wartime price controls a price jump after the freeze is almost certain unless the government extends some kind of restraints.

Q. Are prices on foreign goods going up to stay?

A. One way or another, probably yes. The President imposed a 10-per-cent import duty surcharge that is temporary but indefinite.

Q. If an auto dealer customarily offers discounts from list price, must he continue to offer such discounts during the freeze?

A. Yes. For all goods the general rule is that the price ceiling is that price at or above which 10 per cent of transactions were conducted in the 30 days before Aug. 14. This includes discounted prices.

Q. Can a food store go over all its records in 30 days prior to Aug. 14 and raise prices on all items to the highest charged in that period without regard to current charges?

A. Some prices may go up, especially if the merchant was caught with an exceptionally low sale price in effect at the start of the freeze. The 10-per-cent, 30-day rule applies here, too.

Q. Some complain the President did not freeze interest and profits. Did he have authority to do so?

A. Interest yes, profits no. A 1969 law gives him authority to ask the Federal Reserve Board to control interest and credit, but a ceiling on profits or dividends would require enactment of something like the wartime excess-profits tax, no longer on the books.

Q. May a restaurant raise prices to cover the increased costs of foods which are allowed to fluctuate?

A. No. They must absorb the loss if food prices go up, but may pocket the profit if the price goes down.

Julie Wants 'Normalcy'

ATLANTIC BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower says she'd like to be treated just like any other first-year teacher.

The President's daughter showed up for her first day on the job at Atlantic Beach Elementary School Monday, attending a planning session for teachers.

She charmed the principal and fellow teachers and laughed and joked at a teachers' meeting, but she refused interviews and posed for only one picture.

"She has a great idea—she'd like to be treated like any other first-year teacher. But there's no getting around that she is the President's daughter," said principal Ray Bailey.

Mrs. Eisenhower will teach the third grade. Her husband, Ens. David Eisenhower, is stationed at the nearby Mayport Naval Station.

Dear Abby: The Office Flirt Made A Good Wife

DEAR ABBY: My story which my wife and I have agreed never to mention, might help others:

"Torchy" (fictitious name) was the most attractive young gal in our office, and all the men, including myself, shared her "favors" with which she was very generous. (I was a swinging young bachelor in those days.)

Next thing Torchy informed us that one of us had impregnated her! Now who would want to marry such a situation? Her attempts to pin the deed on each one of us terminated her charms overnight. Torchy played it cool and continued to work, growing bigger right before our guilty eyes. My conscience got the better of me and I married the Office Problem.

The baby was born and he is the cutest kid you've ever seen. Furthermore, he is the living image of ME!

Now, the most important part. Torchy straightened herself out and became the kind of wife and mother every man hopes for. We have moved to another city, leaving our pasts behind us. And now every time I look at that beautiful kid I think of how close I came to walking out on my responsibility as well as handing my own son over to someone else. Sign me,

DUPLICATE IN UTAH
DEAR DUPLICATE: You were one of the luckier ones. The moral of your story is, "Never fish off the company dock."

DEAR ABBY: Last week my eldest son (whom I shall call "Jimmy") had his seventh birthday and I had a little party for him. My mother-in-law came with a present for Jimmy, and another one exactly like it for his younger brother, Billy who is five. Needless to say, the birthday boy's nose was a little out of joint.

Now I am not saying that my mother-in-law was out of line to have brought a gift for Bill, too, but I don't think a child's birthday should have to be shared with brothers or sisters. It is HIS day, and the others will have their day when their birthday comes.

Am I wrong to feel this way? Or is my mother-in-law?

BETWIXT
DEAR BETWIXT: I think it's a rather thoughtful gesture to bring the other child a little something but your mother-in-law went overboard in bringing the younger boy a gift identical to the birthday boy's.

DEAR ABBY: A Pennsylvania minister asked you to spread the word about how difficult it is to get those tiny multi-colored tissue paper hearts off trees and church property. (They're used to throw at married couple after weddings.) He suggested going back to throwing RICE!

Ever try getting rice and confetti off carpeting half an hour before a funeral!

Our pastor here in Indian Orchard, Mass., has a better solution. He informs the bridal couple that there is a $25 "cleaning service charge" for cleaning up after the wedding.

This must be paid BEFORE the wedding, and if there is no litter (confetti, rice, or anything else thrown at the bridal couple) inside or outside the church, the service charge is refunded. We haven't seen any litter from weddings since.

NEW ENGLANDER

DEAR NEW ENGLANDER: Smart pastor you have there.

DEAR ABBY: Apropos "litter" after weddings: I've attended several weddings where wild bird seed was passed among the guests to throw at the bride and groom.

It solved everyone's problem; nothing to clean up afterwards, no waste, and a gay spirit prevailed.

WILLIAMSTOWN

DEAR WILLIAMSTOWN: One might say such weddings are "for the birds."

Cost Of Living Council's Ruling Explained

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following is the full text of the Cost of Living Council's question and answer rulings announced Friday:

GENERAL
Q. How do you distinguish between raw and processed agricultural products?

A. Raw agricultural products include those products that retain the same physical form that they possessed when they left the farm gate. All other agricultural and food products would be considered processed and subject to the freeze. This would include all products canned, frozen, slaughtered, milled or processed in some other way that changes the physical form; packaging would not be considered a processing activity.

Examples:

Exempt—live animals and poultry, shell eggs, raw milk, sugar cane and sugar beets, all fresh fruit, all fresh vegetables, honey, fresh fish, and fresh seafood.

Non-exempt—slaughtered animals, dressed poultry, pasteurized milk, "raw" and refined sugar, canned and frozen fruits and frozen vegetables.

Q. Does the wage-price freeze include Puerto Rico and the trust territories?

A. The U.S. customs zone is the boundary for the freeze. Puerto Rico is within the customs zone so it is included. The trust territories which are outside the customs zone are not included.

Q. Are prices in industries which are subject to government regulation frozen?

A. Yes. Agencies which regulate these industries may permit price decreases and change other aspects of the industry, but no price increases are allowed.

WAGES

Q. Can an employer reduce wages and other benefits to employees and use the President's freeze as a justification?

A. The President's program does not require a reduction in compensation levels below those in effect on Aug. 15.

Q. May scheduled pay raises which are dependent upon employees' completing certain educational requirements be paid during the freeze?

A. Yes. Where the employer is willing to certify that an agreement was in existence that provided for increases in pay dependent on the employees' completing educational requirements for specific job levels, the pay increase can be granted because, in effect, the action is bona fide promotion.

For example, a teacher who has been awarded a master's degree can receive the increment which is normally given. If the effective date of the teacher's contract is after Aug. 14, the increment must be the amount that was granted last year.

Q. If teachers have reached a new agreement on pay scales for the coming school year and the contract does not go into effect until Sept. 1, may teachers receive that pay increase?

A. No.

Q. If employees are severed for normal business reasons, can they receive their severance pay if it is in excess of their normal pay rate that was in effect as of Aug. 14?

A. Yes. If severance pay procedures are a part of the understood corporate procedure and the firm is willing to certify that this was the procedure they had in effect, severance pay may be paid.

IMPORTS

Q. If the price of an import established in the world market rises during the freeze period, can the importer pass on the price increase to domestic consumers?

A. Yes, the importer can pass on the price increase as long as the product is not physically transformed by the seller or becomes a component of the good being sold. When the imported product loses its identity or is incorporated into another good, at that point, the price increase may no longer be passed on.

Q. What about the 10 per cent import surcharge? Can these price increases be passed along?

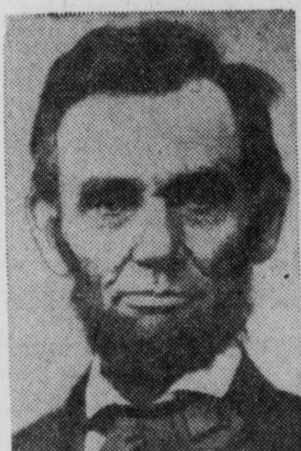

A. Yes, policy on this has already been announced.

Q. Can importers, processors, and others in the U.S. include the supplemental duty increase on foreign imports in calculating their markup for transaction price?

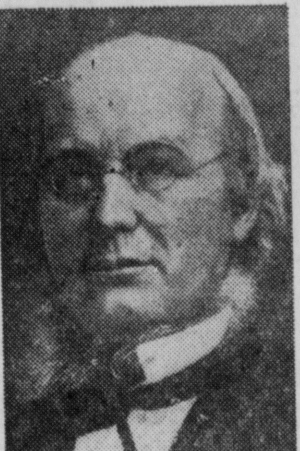

A. No. The supplemental duty can be passed on only to the extent that it was paid on a dollar for dollar basis for imports made on and after Aug. 15.

So the extension gives you more. Twice the convenience. Nevertheless, it costs much less because we only have to connect it to your first phone.

Not Much Pork In Canned Beans

NEW YORK (AP) — The city's Department of Consumer Affairs announced that a study of 10 leading brands of pork and beans showed that the pork content in cans ranged from 7 per cent down to zero.

A spokesman for one firm whose "pork and beans" product contained no pork said:

"The pork has been ground up and is not visible to the naked eye."

Still They Come

There are other lands in the world where immigration is on the increase. Australia and Canada, to name two. But nowhere else are immigration quotas so consistently filled and waiting lists as long as they are in the United States.

The Bureau for Immigration and Naturalization reports waiting lists five years long from virtually every country in the world. Reflecting changes in the immigration laws, the countries which now head the list in sending their dissatisfied to these shores are Mexico, Greece, the Philippines, Cuba and Jamaica.

Moving up fast are the small countries of Asia and Africa. Strange, isn't it, that so many people are eager to come to a country which has so many detractors at home? Even stranger is the fact that a majority of those coming here with permanent residence in mind are leaving the small countries usually considered part of the third world — the same third world which is supposed to find just about everything about America distasteful.

Someone has been selling Americans a bill of goods on their shortcomings, but the constant stream of people from diverse backgrounds who still look upon the United States as the symbol of hope say otherwise.

A Sound Rule

"Children and matches" is the third most frequent cause of residential fires, as compiled by the National Fire Protection Assn. Only defects in heating and cooking equipment rank higher. In 1969, almost 80,000 home fires were blamed on the deadly mixture of children and matches.

There is no way of determining precisely how many fatalities stemmed from this fire cause. But if the ratio to total fires was similar, 700 lives may have been lost that year through carelessness with matches.

Some home accidents, including fires, may be beyond the ability of the homeowner to prevent. But one simple rule can provide absolute protection against one of the major causes of fires: never leave matches where children can reach them.

Fire is one of nature's phenomena which has changed little since man first mastered it. It can be friend or foe, depending upon how it is used.

No Real Cure

Causes of school dropouts are usually classified in general terms as failure, frustration and boredom, problems which cannot be blamed entirely on the schools but which must be solved by the schools.

The solution, educators agree, lies in a program which offers every child a reason for wanting to go to school, but there is little agreement as to how it can be achieved.

The answer, like the problem, varies from community to community, from state to state.

While the results of back-to-school campaigns are disappointing, they should not be surprising. They simply show the futility of luring dropouts back to school without correcting the factors which led them to leave.

The goal must be not only to bring them back but to keep them there, and that means giving them a reason for wanting to stay.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Every couple of months I get a red pimple on my nose. It hurts like the devil. It also seems to amuse many people. Could this be caused by improper diet?

Mr. R. R., Ala.
Dear Mr. R.: Your nose is undoubtedly painful, too.

Almost always such pimples are caused by the staphylococcus germ which invades the tissue around the nasal cartilage.

It usually makes its entrance through the base of a hair inside the nose.

The infection forms a tiny abscess which then makes the outside of the nose swell.

Nose-picking, with or without a handkerchief, is the usual cause of opening tiny areas for invasion with bacteria.

Diet may play only a secondary role, if it is inadequate and body resistance is low.

Prior to the use of antibiotics physicians worried much more about these infections than they do now. With antibiotics taken internally and wet dressings applied to the inside and outside of the nose, the small abscess "comes to a head" and empties.

Comedians make so many jokes about surgeons leaving sponges in the abdomens of patients that I honestly am concerned about an operation I am about to have.

Mrs. T.R.M., Mont.
Dar Mrs. M.: Exploitation of a serious situation by comedy acts as a psychological release not only for the comedian but for the listener as well.

There is no reason why you should be anxious or fearful about this very rare situation in the operating room.

These accidents almost never occur because there is a "sponge count" at the end of all surgery. This means that every sponge given to the surgeon must be accounted for. A surgical sponge is not a sea sponge, but rather a large pad of gauze to which is attached a metal ring for added safety and identification.

Can alcohol fumes be dangerous to a young child who is given a sponge bath to reduce fever?

Mrs. M.R.E., Neb.
Dear Mrs. E.: Yours is a very valid question that only recently has been given more serious consideration than formerly.

Dr. Malcolm Moss of Englewood, N. J., has suggested that heavy concentration of alcohol vapors may be toxic to

Chou's Opinion

By JEFFERY HART

One minor but nevertheless fascinating incident occurred during James Reston's visit to Premier Chou En-lai in Peking. In the course of the evening, Chou inquired about certain American experts on China and indicated his opinion of certain other figures concerned with China during the 1940's. He asked, reports Reston, "about John Stewart Service and John Carter Vincent, formerly of the State Department, and the Orientalists, Prof. John K. Fairbank of Harvard and Owen Latimore, formerly of Johns Hopkins." When Reston suggested that these men would perhaps like to visit China again, Chou replied: "Take good wishes to them. If they want to visit China we will welcome them."

Chou then went on to express "some admiration for the late Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell." However "he was rather grudging in his praise for Gen. George C. Marshall . . . though he expressed a preference for him over Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer and Patrick J. Hurley, who also served the United States here during the postwar period."

Now the interesting thing about this cast of characters is the careful evaluative calibration Chou indicated. Vincent, Fairbank, Latimore, and Service are just fine and would be "welcome" — but not, you will notice, John Paton Davies, who after sharing some of the rosy sentiments of the others toward Chinese Communism, shifted to a much more critical view. He, therefore, is off the list of "welcome" experts on China.

Moving on to the politicians and generals, Stilwell was okay and Chou admires him. General Marshall was not quite so good from Chou's standpoint, but still deserving of "praise," and certainly preferable to Wedemeyer and Hurley, who were at the anti-Communist end of the spectrum. The interesting thing to notice here is that Chou is in total agreement with the conclusions published by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee in 1951 after an exhaustive investigation of policy making where China was concerned. The Chinese premier and the committee agree on the political coloration of the various individuals, though, of course, where the committee said "bad," Chou says "good."

And with good reason. Chou's favorite experts were accustomed to calling Mao and Chou "so-called Communists" who were really seeking "agrarian reform" and "civil rights. In 1944, Service was filing dispatches claiming that the Chinese Communists were "carrying out democratic policies" and seeking "the establishment of democratic institutions." Today Owen Latimore lives in England, and surfaces now and then with public statements comparing the U.S. government with whatever historic tyrannies he happens to think of.

Chou's grip on the political realities is therefore quite firm, though just a bit dated. A younger group of China scholars now spreading through the academy, while admiring people like Latimore, does not bother to conceal its admiration for Chinese Communism beneath Aesopian talk of "democratic policies" and "civil rights." The self-styled Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars is unabashedly Maoist in coloration. Its leadership refers to Chinese Communism as "a noble experiment," and it energetically propagandizes on behalf of the various liberation fronts in Southeast Asia. The only trace of reticence in the committee presentations, indeed, is a certain leanness about referring to the 50 million or so corpses upon which the edifice of the "noble experiment" was erected.

Chou, of course, is a busy man, but I expect that he will soon update his welcome list.

Legislature Report

By MYRL H. SHOEMAKER
State Representative

The tax package as of now is still in "limbo." There are strong rumors that indicate the legislators in the Senate may lean toward a sales tax. However, rumors are still rumors.

The Legislative Service Commission has been asked to draft two alternate bills for a meeting of the sub-committee of the Senate Ways and Means Committee. One of the bills, as an alternate to Am. Sub. H.B. 477, would provide for a total of about $750 million in new spending money as compared with a total tax package of $1.5 billion, as approved by the House, according to the Senate Ways & Means Chairman. It would also include the controversial individual state income tax and corporation franchise-income tax in the bill.

The alternate version would provide for new spending of about $750 million, which would not include an income tax, but provide for an increase of around 1.5 per cent increase in the sales tax, with a revision of the brackets and sales taxes on some services, plus an increase in the current 5-mill franchise tax. The first alternate would take in about 65 amendments that have been proposed in the House version of the state income tax bill.

The $750 million alternate version of the tax bill would eliminate the "goodies" such as the tax rebate on real estate, proposed in the House Bill. The Senate committee is expected also to eliminate the proposed earmarking of the estate tax for financing the tax concessions in homestead exemption.

In other important Senate events, increases up to 33 per cent in workmen's compensation benefits were recommended this week by the Senate Committee on Commerce and Labor. As advanced to the Senate floor, the measure is identical, except for technical changes, to the workmen's compensation plan adopted by the Ohio House on July 28. The legislation was stalled for months in the House before both parties reached agreement on new benefit levels.

As an agreed bill between the two parties, it was voted out committee 6-0 Tuesday, after less than a minute's consideration. Floor action is expected.

On Wednesday, the Ohio House passed a bill that would create a Consumer Education Advisory Council, empowered to make recommendations to the State Board of Education and the General Assembly concerning the education programs and the training of teachers in the programs.

According to complaints and reports received by me, private health insurance companies are taking advantage of their old age subscribers.

Apparently, the insurance companies continue to provide full coverage to subscribers who have become eligible and have enrolled in the Medicare program. As a result, many old age subscribers are paying for insurance and receiving no benefits in return because Medicare has covered the medical expenses. Which results in a windfall for the private insurance company. Furthermore, the health insurance companies reportedly limit their refunds for these over-payments to a certain period of time, often causing an unnecessary expense to fall upon the subscribers.

I feel that this practice of health insurance companies is an extreme injustice to our too often overlooked senior citizens. I have sent a letter to the Superintendent of Insurance, requesting that he look into this matter, and I am confident that he will take some action to determine the legality of these practices. Furthermore, I intend to seek some appropriate legislative action which will remedy this inexcusable exploitation of our old age Ohioans.

In other important Senate events, increases up to 33 per cent in workmen's compensation benefits were recommended this week by the Senate Committee on Commerce and Labor. As advanced to the Senate floor, the measure is identical, except for technical changes, to the workmen's compensation plan adopted by the Ohio House on July 28. The legislation was stalled for months in the House before both parties reached agreement on new benefit levels.

As an agreed bill between the two parties, it was voted out of committee 6-0 Tuesday, after less than a minute's consideration. Floor action is expected.

DR. Howard J. Schwartz, Case Western Reserve University immunologist, says nearly 40 per cent of Americans are affected by allergies. An allergy is something that affects you adversely by physical contact, like too much vermouth.

Allergies used to be just hay fever and asthma. Now we have additives.

There are thousands of allergies. We used to just live with them, but medical science has changed all that.

You can be allergic to certain fabrics. You know how touchy some people are when rubbed the wrong way.

Some people are allergic to certain foods. Did you ever notice the raw panic of a child at just the sight of spinach?

There was an actual case of a bride learning she was allergic to her husband. If you've ever been married to someone who made you break out in a cold sweat, you know.

All at the same time we're fighting allergies, pollution, and North Vietnam. So far, we haven't even got North Vietnam talked into anything.

HOLLYWOOD AP) — In the uptight television world, James Stewart is an island of calm.

During almost four decades of film making and close to 100 pictures, he has learned to concentrate on his job—acting—and let trusted associates do the rest of the work and worry.

NBC named one of Hollywood's perennial favorites as the star of its new series, "The Jimmy Stewart Show," figured to be very rough competition in a Sunday night spot between the network's Disney hour and "Bonanza."

Stewart, 63, seems solely interested in his involvement in a new medium. On a recent morning he was relaxing between scenes wandering contentedly around the set, finally alighting in his mobile dressing room parked close to the sound stage.

"This isn't as hectic as they say it is," he said. "You do have to work fast. It's a deadline racket and you don't have much of a chance to cover yourself or to experiment. The things you have to depend on are instinct and experience."

NBC is counting heavily on Stewart's great appeal to audiences of all ages. Jimmy himself thinks that he has a whole new generation of fans picked up by all those old movies in circulation.

With most people involved in television selling their new product with the fervor of used-car salesmen, Stewart's soft understatement is refreshing.

"It's really nothing very new," he said. "We're making a family show with comedy—and a little wild humor through it."

He plays a professor—"forgetful and sort of mentally uncoordinated"—with wife and a couple of children, even a grandson.

"Most times we take a trivial but typical family situation and build a half hour around it," he said.

In recent years Stewart has made pictures only when a script appealed to him and has done a lot of leisurely traveling with his wife, Gloria. Having committed himself to the series, Stewart now puts in a 10-hour working day, arriving at the studio at 8 and leaving at 6. His evenings and his week-ends are jealously protected from occupational invasion. Saturdays and Sundays he usually plays a little golf and flies his plane.

"I've loved airplanes all my life," he said, "and I learned to fly in 1935. I missed flying when I retired from the Air Force in 1968, so I bought a tiny plane. Mostly just fly around—I don't go anywhere."

Migrant Labor Problem Scanned

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. John Gilligan's office says efforts will be made to make the Governor's Committee on Migrant Labor more responsive to migrant workers.

The committee has come under fire from the leader of a migrant workers' organization who charges it has failed to give laborers adequate voice.

Baldemar Velasquez, 24, president of the Farm Labor Organizing Committee (FLO), which represents migrant workers in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, said the governor's committee was made up primarily of growers and processors, and did not represent laborers.

Control Board Delays Move To Shift Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Controlling Board has postponed action on a request to transfer nearly $1.4 million in state funds to meet a Sept. 15 bond retirement deadline until it learns more about cigarette tax receipts.

State Auditor Joseph Ferguson said last week the money was needed because the one-cent portion of the state sales tax on cigarettes destined to bond retirement is not bringing in enough revenue.

The board didn't question that contention at its Monday meeting, but one member suggested that a state law provided for a second penny tax to be added by the state treasurer were not adequate.

Rep. Lloyd Kerns, R-16 Peoria, who is also chairman of the House Finance Appropriations Committee, said he believed a section of the Ohio Code indicated a second penny tax was to be imposed if needed.

Kerns said the provision was in a statute which took effect in 1965. "I'm just curious whether this second cent was ever imposed," he said.

The board decided to seek legal advice before acting on the transfer request at a Thursday meeting. The $1,360,453 needed to meet the bond retirement deadline was provided in the July interim budget enacted by the General Assembly.

In other action the board released:

—$25 million in Ohio Water Development Authority bond money for sewage treatment facilities in Bucyrus ($269,505), Columbus ($15,948,664), Cleveland ($569,745), Greenfield ($1,416,218), Hamilton County—Millcreek ($5,978,006) and Hartsville, Hamilton County ($129,259).

—$379,743 for purchase of 175 acres of land at Athens from the Hocking Conservancy District for the Appalachian Highway.

—$40,436,896 to the Department of Education, as appropriated in the interim August budget, for the month's school payment.

Complex Plot Seen At San Quentin

Hear More Barge Death Testimony

CINCINNATI (AP) — The passengers and crew of a cabin cruiser that collided with a tug pulling 15 barges on the Ohio River near New Richmond, Ohio Aug. 15 testified Monday before a U. S. Coast Guard Board of Inquiry they did not know of any danger until seconds before impact.

Three of the four survivors of the crash, which killed seven persons aboard the 26-foot cabin cruiser, said they went overboard and bumped along the bottom of the tow's barges before surfacing alongside the tow and being rescued.

The three survivors who testified Monday, Larry Hundley, 11, his brother Gary, 15, and a friend, Theresa Partin, 12, all testified Russell Hundley, 37, the boat's pilot, who was killed, was swinging the cruiser's spotlight around minutes before the collision.

Larry Hundley testified he was the first to see the barge coming up the river, almost straight ahead of him. He said he saw no lights. Other witnesses testified the barges were brightly and properly lighted.

He said the barge "was about 20 feet away" and he ran and told his father, "Barge!" when he tripped. He said he "was getting up when it hit."

Larry and his brother, Gary, both testified their father had taken no boating safety courses but had read books about boating.

across the Southwest. Temperatures before dawn ranged from 88 at Phoenix, Ariz., and Blythe, Calif., to 34 at Marquette, Mich.

George Jackson and John (Larry) Spain trying to escape," prisons chief Raymond K. Procunier said at a news conference Monday. "It's my suspicion there were many more who were supposed to go with them."

Only Jackson, 29, who was shot fatally by a tower guard, and Spain, 22, who was captured in a prison courtyard, ran from the San Quentin adjustment center, where three guards and two white honor inmates had been killed, prison officials reported.

"It may have come off prematurely," Procunier said.

"We don't know if it was a plot throughout the system."

He said rumors of a massive prison escape attempt by "revolutionary types" had been circulating for months in California prisons and had caused him to meet a week ago with top state prison officials to discuss security measures to prevent violence.

Procunier said the discovery of a 9mm foreign-made automatic in the Afro-style hairdo of Jackson, one of the so-called Soledad Brothers, may have started the break prematurely Saturday.

Jackson had just returned to the maximum security adjustment center after talking with attorney Stephen M. Bingham, when the gun was found during a routine "skin search," Procunier said.

After Jackson grabbed the pistol and "got the drop on the guard," he ordered several officers to the floor and made one guard release 25 other prisoners in the first floor cells, prison officials said.

They included John Clutchette, 28, and Fleeta Drumgo, 26, the two other Soledad Brothers awaiting trial with Jackson on charges of slaying a Soledad Prison guard.

There was also Russell Magee, 32, indicted along with black militant Angela Davis on charges of murder, kidnap and conspiracy in an Aug. 7, 1970 Marin County Civic Center shootout in which a judge, two convicts and Jackson's brother, Jonathan, 17, were slain.

Procunier said he believes at least several prisoners may have planned to masquerade with clothes from slain guards, because two of the dead guards had been found stripped to their underwear. He said bullets in soap possessed by convicts and a partially completed gun fashioned from a water pipe were discovered later in a search of the 2,000-man prison on San Francisco Bay.

"I don't see any master conspiracy," Procunier added. "I think we hit the apex here at San Quentin."

Insurance Companies Face Deceptive Practice Charge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The deputy director of the Ohio Department of Insurance says five insurance companies operating in Ohio are guilty of "very, very blatant" deceptive sales practices.

E. E. Eckert added that the department plans to begin issuing charges against agents of the firms within the next few weeks.

"There have very definitely been violations," Eckert said. "If we have any agents saying they were trained in these practices, or if we have a large number of agents from one company, then we're going to hold the companies accountable."

A state probe of life and auto insurance sales practices was launched after State Rep. Frank Mayfield, R-67 Cincinnati, turned over to the department tape records of allegedly illegal selling techniques used by some agents.

Eckert cited as one example of a deceptive sales technique a licensed insurance agent's representing himself as an investment counselor.

He also said some agents misrepresented policies by conveying the impression that the purchaser was acquiring stock with insurance coverage incidental.

The department has sent out over 200 questionnaires to persons who have complained of questionable sales practices. About 50 which have been returned, Eckert said, provide sufficient evidence to warrant hearings on some agents' activities.

He said the agents involved would be notified of charges within a week to 10 days and asked to appear at a departmental hearing. Failure to comply, he said, would result in an agent's license being revoked.

School Leaders Eye Wage Curbs, Austerity Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state superintendent of public instruction will meet Wednesday with Ohio school administrators to discuss President Nixon's wage freeze and Gov. John Gilligan's austerity program plans.

Dr. Martin Essex said the session would include discussion of the governor's threat to cut the state's school foundation payments by three per cent and eliminate state aid to parochial schools.

Gilligan last week announced the planned cutbacks as part of an overall austerity program he said he would put into effect Sept. 1 if the Legislature had not enacted a biennial budget by that date.

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Following is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service:

Temperatures tumbled under clear skies across Ohio overnight, breaking or matching record lows for the date many places in the state. A 43-degree reading in Zanesville broke an old record of 44 which had stood since 1952. Toledo recorded 43, breaking a 1940 record by one degree. Columbus tied an old record—47 set in 1951.

A cold, high pressure ridge extending from West Virginia to Hudson Bay dominated Ohio's weather early today. Skies were expected to remain clear through tonight, but begin clouding Wednesday as a low approaches.

Warmer weather should return to the state with the approach of the low.

Auditor Eyes Cash Plight Of Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Auditor Joseph Ferguson will send state examiners to 13 school districts reportedly on the verge of fiscal disaster to make cash analyses of their situations within the next two weeks.

The action is being taken at the request of the school boards under a law enacted by the 108th General Assembly, he said.

Ferguson said the requests have been on hand for "some time," but said he had postponed action "hoping to see how the schools would make out under the new two-year state operating budget."

That budget has yet to materialize, as the Legislature continues debate on spending and financing and state operations are funded by interim budgets.

The auditor criticized the Legislature for failing to have a budget ready at the start of the biennium July 1. "If they (legislators) had passed the budget when they were supposed to, maybe some of these school districts wouldn't be in financial trouble now," he said.

The examiners' analyses are the first step in a process that could lead to the closing of bankrupt school districts later this year.

School districts involved are: —The cities of Sidney, Wilmington, Fostoria, Findlay, Franklin and Bowling Green.

—The villages of Clyde in Sandusky County and Caldwell in Noble County.

—Northwest in Hamilton County, Northmor in Gallia County, Otsego in Wood County, Northmont in Montgomery County and South Central in Huron County.

Auditor Eyes Cash Plight Of Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor Joseph Ferguson will send state examiners to 13 school districts reportedly on the verge of fiscal disaster to make cash analyses of their situations within the next two weeks.

The action is being taken at the request of the school boards under a law enacted by the 108th General Assembly, he said.

Ferguson said the requests have been on hand for "some time," but said he had postponed action "hoping to see how the schools would make out under the new two-year state operating budget."

Federal, State Laws Clash On Remap, Brown Reports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said Monday it is impossible to abide by both federal and state law in legislative reapportionment.

He asked Atty. Gen. William J. Brown for an opinion on whether certain Ohio constitutional provisions must be followed by the Apportionment Board in drawing House and Senate lines.

Brown raised 10 questions he said should be answered before Ohio can apply the one-man, one-vote U.S. Supreme Court ruling in apportioning House and Senate districts.

The secretary of state, one of two Republicans on the five-member reapportionment Board raised questions about an Ohio constitutional provision to permit a population variance of 10 per cent between House and Senate districts.

He also noted census tract lines do not follow political boundaries and questioned a state constitutional section that requires legislative lines to follow political boundaries, such as county, township, municipal corporation and city ward lines.

Devaluation Hits Hard In Israel

TEL AVIV (AP) — It didn't take long for Israeli to discover the effect of the government's latest move to boost the sagging economy. About as long as it takes to get to the local supermarket.

Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir announced the 20 per cent devaluation of the Israeli pound—from 3.50 to 4.20 to the U.S. dollar—Saturday night while most of the country slept. Housewives discovered next morning that the price of bread, butter, milk, eggs and sugar had risen accordingly.

The devaluation of the pound—sometimes called lira—will no doubt give a shot in the arm to Israel's second most serious national problem after defense, a $1.4 billion deficit in the balance of payments.

It was President Nixon's new dollar policy which finally forced the inevitable devaluation. It will have the effect of keeping Israeli exports competitive on the world market, especially in the United States. As the level of export remains the same, the government expects imports to drop to what it thinks is a reasonable level.

The Israeli wage earner, already staggering under brutal taxes, including the world's highest income tax, was hit hardest by the new measures.

"What it boils down to," Brown said, "is that because of the distribution of the population in the state, the method specified in the constitution to reapportion the state is not feasible."

Gov. John J. Gilligan is required by law to call the apportionment board into session before Oct. 1. It must have a completed apportionment plan by Oct. 5.

The board is composed of the secretary of state, governor, state auditor and one person from each of the two major political parties represented in the legislature. A recent amendment to the law does not require that the later appointees be from legislative ranks.

A Senate district comprises three adjacent House Districts and a House District must be wholly within a Senate District.

The apportionment board this year will be composed of three

Democrats and two Republicans unless one of the political parties makes an appointment outside the party.

Only appeal from the apportionment board decisions is to the courts.

Apportionment by the board is entirely apart from congressional redistricting which must be accomplished by the legislature.

Both Houses of the Ohio legislature are controlled by Republicans. Ohio is losing one of its 24 congressional seats because of shifting population in the last decade. However, it will not alter the total membership in its legislature which now is made up of 33 senators and 99 representatives.

ACLU Plans Fight On Tax Money Use

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—The American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio will file suit to stop any plan to give state support to parochial schools through tax credits or vouchers "within days if not within hours after the governor signs any such legislation."

Ohio ACLU executive director Benson A. Wolman Monday told a Portsmouth civic club funding non-public schools through voucher or tax credits was "a ruse designed to circumvent public opinion and to mislead the courts but neither will be fooled."

8 PERISH IN FIERY COLLISION—Spectators stare at the wreckage after eight persons, including an infant, burned to death and 10 others were injured in a chain reaction collision of five cars and two giant trucks on busy U.S. 101 six miles north of Ventura, Calif. Traffic was backed up for five miles in both directions.

Federal, State Laws Clash On Remap, Brown Reports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said Monday it is impossible to abide by both federal and state law in legislative reapportionment.

He asked Atty. Gen. William J. Brown for an opinion on whether certain Ohio constitutional provisions must be followed by the Apportionment Board in drawing House and Senate lines.

Brown raised 10 questions he said should be answered before Ohio can apply the one-man, one-vote U.S. Supreme Court ruling in apportioning House and Senate districts.

The secretary of state, one of two Republicans on the five-member reapportionment Board raised questions about an Ohio constitutional provision to permit a population variance of 10 per cent between House and Senate districts.

He also noted census tract lines do not follow political boundaries and questioned a state constitutional section that requires legislative lines to follow political boundaries, such as county, township, municipal corporation and city ward lines.

"What it boils down to," Brown said, "is that because of the distribution of the population in the state, the method specified in the constitution to reapportion the state is not feasible."

Gov. John J. Gilligan is required by law to call the apportionment board into session before Oct. 1. It must have a completed apportionment plan by Oct. 5.

The board is composed of the secretary of state, governor, state auditor and one person from each of the two major political parties represented in the legislature. A recent amendment to the law does not require that the later appointees be from legislative ranks.

A Senate district comprises three adjacent House Districts and a House District must be wholly within a Senate District. The apportionment board this year will be composed of three Democrats and two Republicans, unless one of the political parties makes an appointment outside the party.

Only appeal from the apportionment board decisions is to the courts.

Apportionment by the board is entirely apart from congressional redistricting which must be accomplished by the legislature.

Both Houses of the Ohio legislature are controlled by Republicans. Ohio is losing one of its 24 congressional seats because of shifting population in the last decade. However, it will not alter the total membership in its legislature which now is made up of 33 senators and 99 representatives.

ACLU Plans Fight On Tax Money Use

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—The American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio will file suit to stop any plan to give state support to parochial schools through tax credits or vouchers "within days if not within hours after the governor signs any such legislation."

Ohio ACLU executive director Benson A. Wolman Monday told a Portsmouth civic club funding non-public schools through voucher or tax credits was "a ruse designed to circumvent public opinion and to mislead the courts but neither will be fooled."

LAI'D TO REST—U.S. Army Chinook helicopter gently lowers a U.S. Navy F-1E fighter jet at the Sea Wolf Memorial Park in Galveston, Tex. The plane will be on display next to the submarine U.S.S. Cavalla.

Devaluation Hits Hard In Israel

TEL AVIV (AP) — It didn't take long for Israeli to discover the effect of the government's latest move to boost the sagging economy. About as long as it takes to get to the local supermarket.

Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir announced the 20 per cent devaluation of the Israeli pound—from 3.50 to 4.20 to the U.S. dollar—Saturday night while most of the country slept. Housewives discovered next morning that the price of bread, butter, milk, eggs and sugar had risen accordingly.

The devaluation of the pound—sometimes called lira—will no doubt give a shot in the arm to Israel's second most serious national problem after defense, a $1.4 billion deficit in the balance of payments.

It was President Nixon's new dollar policy which finally forced the inevitable devaluation. It will have the effect of keeping Israeli exports competitive on the world market, especially in the United States. As the level of export remains the same, the government expects imports to drop to what it thinks is a reasonable level.

The Israeli wage earner, already staggering under brutal taxes, including the world's highest income tax, was hit hardest by the new measures.

Daybook of America 1771 1871 1971

By CLARK KINNAIRD

No. 100 Centennial footnote to renaissance in 1971 of the bicycle as non-pollutant pleasure vehicle and physical conditioner.

"On the old-time velocipedes, the pedal was called a 'slipper', and was weighted so that the same side of the pedal would be up and level, always in position for the foot. A radical departure from this type were the triangular-shaped pedals of wood... the principal claim for them being, 'they are so shaped as to allow the fore-part of the foot, bringing the ankle-joint in play, relieving the knee, and rendering propulsion much easier.'"

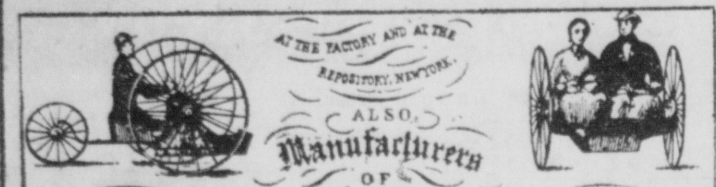

"Then, in 1871, H. J. Grout thought of covering a flat pedal with rubber. This was to discourage use of the ball of the foot as the contact with the pedal, a natural method that allowed free ankle-motion and the anatomically correct position employed to this day by all good riders."

The quotation is from Riding High: the Story of the Bicycle, by Arthur J. Palmer (pub. by Dutton). However, the 1870s were to bring riding lower, with more safety, via reducing the dimension of the then usual, towering front wheel.

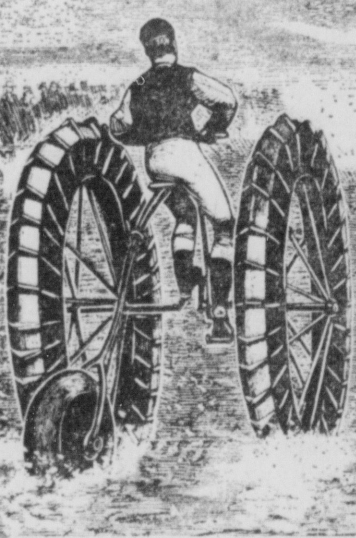

In thus making bicycling more practical for women, who promptly adopted "bloomers" as an expedient costume, the wheeled sport advanced dress reform and emancipated youths from omnipresent chaperons. Formation of cycling clubs, first at Boston, made the bicycle a status symbol, too, and hastened advent of the automobile era.

You could drive Boynton "land regatta carriage" yourself [as shown left below] or have a back-seat driver at pedals [as indicated right below]. A tricycle of the 1870s, with petroleum-derivative fueling a motor, was to be the first practical horseless carriage, 1885. At right: A pedal-powered tricycle in that era, a pioneer amphibious "beach-buggy."

Brandt To Be Beneficiary Of Big Four Berlin Accord

By PETER REHAK
Associated Press Writer

BOON (AP) — The Big Four agreement on Berlin is an important breakthrough for Chancellor Willy Brandt's policy of improving ties with Communist eastern Europe.

It means he can start moving again on this keystone of his foreign policy, which has been stagnant since he signed treaties normalizing relations with the Soviet Union and Poland last year.

It also improves the re-election chances of his Social

Democrat-led government in 1973.

Brandt considered Berlin a test of Soviet intentions in central Europe, and he made a satisfactory agreement on the city by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union, a precondition to ratifying the Polish and Soviet treaties.

He needed the agreement, whose aim is to bring practical improvements for the city, to show the Christian Democratic opposition that he got something for signing the treaties.

The opposition has charged he made political concessions by formally recognizing German territorial losses in World War II without getting anything in return.

While the text of the agreement has not been published and while details are still to be worked out between East and West Germany, it is certain to bring better access to West Berlin, isolated 110 miles inside Communist territory.

It is also expected to include provisions for West Berliners to visit East Berlin, something they have not been able to do on a regular basis since the Berlin wall was built in 1961.

With the agreement in force, the opposition will be hard put to oppose the ratification of the treaties in the 496-member Bundestag, where Brandt has only a six-vote majority.

Voting against the treaties and thus against the agreement would mean that the Christian Democrats are disowning something which has been found acceptable by West Germany's closest allies — the United States, Britain and France.

The talks with the East Germans on the details are expected to take at least two or three months. It is not known whether Brandt will start ratification proceedings before the agreement is in force.

Brandt made no comment on the end of the 17-month-long ambassadorial talks. He evidently planned to wait until their draft is approved by their home governments.

DiSalle Urges Tough Steps To Enforce Wage Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Ohio Gov. Michael DiSalle, who headed the federal Office of Price Stabilization during the Korean War, says the Nixon administration should take steps immediately to enforce its wage-price freeze.

Testifying before the Joint Economic Committee of Congress Monday, DiSalle said a fully-staffed agency should be created to administer and monitor the President's economic policies.

The Ohio Democrat, who now has a law practice in Washington, said a control board should be established at once with the power to levy fines based on the seriousness of the violations.

He said a staff of at least 5,000 would be needed to do the job.

"What is needed is some type of machinery where people can go and get answers," DiSalle said. Otherwise, he predicted that the 90-day, largely voluntary freeze on wages and prices "might not work at all."

He described the purpose of the agency as being to "phase out the freeze" and facilitate the second phase of the President's economic goals.

DiSalle was joined by two other former federal wage-and-price controllers, Paul Porter, who had headed the Office of Price Administration, and University of Pennsylvania Prof. George Taylor in urging enforcement measures.

All three suggested that a

Stay Tuned

To keep performance up and pollution down.

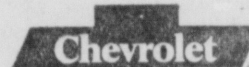

In our last ad, we talked about some of the things Chevrolet is doing to help clear the air. About how carbon monoxide emissions from our engines have been reduced, on the average, by about two-thirds and hydrocarbons have been cut 80%. And how all our engines now run efficiently on low-lead or no-lead gas.

There are ways you can help, too.

Have your engine tuned at least once a year. An untuned engine doesn't burn gasoline efficiently, allowing hydrocarbons to escape into the air. (You not only waste gas, but money as well.)

Replace your carburetor air filter and have your PCV valve checked regularly.

And avoid prolonged idling and wide-open acceleration.

Income Tax OK Pushed By Union

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Representatives of the public school employees union will lobby legislators today for "immediate passage" of a personal income tax and increased funding for education against the backdrop of a possible strike.

"For me to say our local chapters will strike would be foolish," Paul Lewis, executive Ohio Association of Public School Employees (OAPSE), said Monday, "but to say they would not would be foolish, too."

Lewis said from 300-500 OAPSE representatives will meet across from the Statehouse for briefings on the proposed state income tax and educational funding. They will then move across the street to lobby.

"If, in fact, the Legislature does not respond to the pleas and urgings of our people," he said, "I am sure they will go home and have many means to bring the situation to the attention of the people."

He said action might include efforts to defeat some legislators for re-election and that the workers "could also withhold their service." He said, however, that local action would be up to the union's local chapters.

The Grand Illusion.

Something strange happens to a lot of people when they get behind the wheel of a car. They forget they're only human. They forget that mistakes on the road can be caused by them... just as well as by the other guy. There's a little Napoleon in all of us. Some have a little more—some a little less. The important thing is that we all recognize this attitude leads to accidents. Because Napoleon sees things only one way—his. When something goes wrong out on the highway, he presumes it's the other guy's idiotic mistake. Not his.

Fairness and understanding in traffic situations can only help make driving conditions safer for all of us. Your new car dealer would like to see the Napoleons on our roads start caring about other drivers.

Napoleon may have made a pretty big name for himself. But please remember, after all was said and done, what he met.

Waterloo.

Daybook of America 1771-1871-1971

By CLARK KINNAIRD

No. 100 Centennial footnote to renaissance in 1971 of the bicycle as non-pollutant pleasure vehicle and physical conditioner.

"On the old-time velocipedes, the pedal was called a 'slipper', and was weighted so that the same side of the pedal would be up and level, always in position for the foot. A radical departure from this type were the triangular-shaped pedals of wood... the principal claim for them being, they are so shaped as to allow the fore-part of the foot, bringing the ankle-joint in play, relieving the knee, and rendering propulsion much easier."

"Then, in 1871, H. J. Grout thought of covering a flat pedal with rubber. This was to discourage use of the ball of the foot as the contact with the pedal, a natural method that allowed free ankle-motion and the anatomically correct position employed to this day by all good riders."

The quotation is from Riding High: the Story of the Bicycle, by Arthur J. Palmer (pub. by Dutton). However, the 1870s were to bring riding lower, with more safety, via reducing the dimension of the then usual, towering front wheel.

In thus making bicycling more practical for women, who promptly adopted "bloomers" as an expedient costume, the wheeled sport advanced dress reform and emancipated youths from omnipresent chaperons. Formation of cycling clubs, first at Boston, made the bicycle a status symbol, too, and hastened advent of the automobile era.

You could drive Boynton "land regatta carriage" yourself [as shown left below] or have a back-seat driver at pedals [as indicated right below]. A tricycle of the 1870s, with petroleum-derivative fueling a motor, was to be the first practical horseless carriage, 1885. At right: A pedal-powered tricycle in that era, a pioneer amphibious "beach-buggy."

DiSalle Urges Tough Steps To Enforce Wage Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Ohio Gov. Michael DiSalle, who headed the federal Office of Price Stabilization during the Korean War, says the Nixon administration should take steps immediately to enforce its wage-price freeze.

Testifying before the Joint Economic Committee of Congress Monday, DiSalle said a fully-staffed agency should be created to administer and monitor the President's economic policies.

The Ohio Democrat, who now has a law practice in Washington, said a control board should be established at once with the power to levy fines based on the seriousness of the violations.

He said a staff of at least 5,000 would be needed to do the job.

"What is needed is some type of machinery where people can go and get answers," DiSalle said. Otherwise, he predicted that the 90-day, largely voluntary freeze on wages and prices "might not work at all."

He described the purpose of the agency as being to "phase out the freeze" and facilitate the second phase of the President's economic goals.

DiSalle was joined by two other former federal wage-and-price controllers, Paul Porter, who had headed the Office of Price Administration, and University of Pennsylvania Prof. George Taylor in urging enforcement measures.

All three suggested that a tripartite control board comprising representatives of labor, business and government might be the answer.

They also agreed that the President's economic actions were legal, that the freeze was vital to an effective anti-inflation program and that the second phase should concentrate on selective economic controls rather than across-the-board moves.

Cincinnati Attorney On Advisory Panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cincinnati attorney Thomas Conlan has been named chairman of the Governor's Transportation Advisory Commission. Gov. John Gilligan announced the appointment Monday. The commission is charged with developing a plan to convert the Ohio Highway Department into a broader Department of Transportation.

Brandt To Be Beneficiary Of Big Four Berlin Accord

By PETER REHAK
Associated Press Writer

BONN (AP) — The Big Four agreement on Berlin is an important breakthrough for Chancellor Willy Brandt's policy of improving ties with Communist eastern Europe.

It means he can start moving again on this keystone of his foreign policy, which has been stagnant since he signed treaties normalizing relations with the Soviet Union and Poland last year.

It also improves the re-election chances of his Social

Democrat-led government in 1973.

Brandt considered Berlin a test of Soviet intentions in central Europe, and he made a satisfactory agreement on the city by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union a precondition to ratifying the Polish and Soviet treaties.

He needed the agreement, whose aim is to bring practical improvements for the city, to show the Christian Democratic opposition that he got something for signing the treaties.

The opposition has charged he made political concessions by formally recognizing German territorial losses in World War II without getting anything in return.

While the text of the agreement has not been published and while details are still to be worked out between East and West Germany, it is certain to bring better access to West Berlin, isolated 110 miles inside Communist territory.

It is also expected to include provisions for West Berliners to visit East Berlin, something they have not been able to do on a regular basis since the Berlin wall was built in 1961.

With the agreement in force, the opposition will be hard put to oppose the ratification of the treaties in the 496-member Bundestag, where Brandt has only a six-vote majority.

Voting against the treaties and thus against the agreement would mean that the Christian Democrats are disowning something which has been found acceptable by West Germany's closest allies — the United States, Britain and France.

The talks with the East Germans on the details are expected to take at least two or three months. It is not known whether Brandt will start ratification proceedings before the agreement is in force.

Brandt made no comment on the end of the 17-month-long ambassadorial talks. He evidently planned to wait until their draft is approved by their home governments.

which Lewis called "thoroughly disgusted" at delay in passage of the budget-tax package, conveyed its irritation in a telegram to Senate leaders Saturday.

"We have supported your deliberations for many years in a positive manner," read the dispatch released Monday, "but (we) have reached the end of our collective patience."

Income Tax OK Pushed By Union

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Representatives of the public school employees union will lobby legislators today for "immediate passage" of a personal income tax and increased funding for education against the backdrop of a possible strike.

"For me to say our local chapters will strike would be foolish," Paul Lewis, executive Ohio Association of Public School Employees (OAPSE), said Monday, "but to say they would not would be foolish, too."

Lewis said from 300-500 OAPSE representatives will meet across from the Statehouse for briefings on the proposed state income tax and educational funding. They will then move across the street to lobby.

"If, in fact, the Legislature does not respond to the pleas and urgings of our people," he said, "I am sure they will go home and have many means to bring the situation to the attention of the people."

He said action might include efforts to defeat some legislators for re-election and that the workers "could also withhold their service." He said, however, that local action would be up to the union's local chapters.

The Grand Illusion.

Something strange happens to a lot of people when they get behind the wheel of a car. They forget they're only human. They forget that mistakes on the road can be caused by them... just as well as by the other guy. There's a little Napoleon in all of us. Some have a little more — some a little less. The important thing is that we all recognize this attitude leads to accidents. Because Napoleon sees things only one way — his. When something goes wrong out on the highway, he presumes it's the other guy's idiotic mistake. Not his.

Fairness and understanding in traffic situations can only help make driving conditions safer for all of us. Your new car dealer would like to see the Napoleons on our roads start caring about other drivers. Napoleon may have made a pretty big name for himself. But please remember, after all was said and done, what he met. Waterloo.

Government War On Rats Shows Little Firm Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four summers after rat control was the butt of jokes in Congress, federally financed projects are making some progress, but money woes continue and rats seem as prolific as ever.

For instance, in a recent case in New York City's South Bronx area where huge garbage heaps provide homes and food for rodents, cleanup crews routed several hundred rats and used picks and shovels to kill 110 of them.

Amid ridicule and puns about money going down rat holes and "a civil rats bill," the Johnson administration's initial plan to have federal funds help fight rats in America's slums died in the House in July 1967.

A public uproar ensued in support of U.S. aid to combat what one congressman termed "the most devastating enemy man has ever had."

The House reversed itself a few months later and the government began its war on rats.

Turks Open Famed Harem To Public

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — The fabulous harem of the Turkish sultans will be opened to the public for the first time Sept. 1 and among the visitors will be Queen Elizabeth I of Britain, officials announced Monday.

For almost four centuries, the harem section of Topkapı Palace in Istanbul was the home of the sultans, their mothers, royal princes, hundreds of beautiful girls and a corps of black and white eunuchs.

The harem was disbanded in 1922 when the last sultan, Mehmet VI, sailed away from Istanbul in a British warship and Turkey became a republic.

Opening of the harem comes after 12 years of restoration work. Visitors will see:

—Plush, brocaded furniture on which the sultans were entertained.

—Tiled, and gilt-decorated walls within which intrigue led to the strangling of rival prices by deaf mute eunuchs with bowstrings.

So far the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has distributed $14.8 million for fiscal 1969, $12.7 million for fiscal 1970, and had $15 million in its fiscal 1971 budget. And Congress has voted $15 million for rat control in fiscal 1971, which began July 1.

Despite some reports to the contrary, federal representatives insist "the environmental specialists we work with feel the rats are losing."

The incident in South Bronx, a New York City rat-control program leader told Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., illustrates the "kind of evidence of a dire situation in our target" area where garbage accumulations in alleyways are up to 20 feet high.

During the first half of this year, there were 203 rat bites reported in New York City and 3,812 complaints about rats, said Lawrence J. Siegel of the city health agency.

New Highway Maps Being Distributed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Highway Department is distributing one million copies of a new state map this week. The new version contains a greater number of metropolitan area blow-ups, Highway Director J. Phillip Richley says.

The maps are available at state and county fairs, Highway Patrol posts and roadside parks. Richley said questionnaires are being distributed to get suggestions from the public on how to improve future editions of the map.

Auto Crashes Claim Lives Of Many Youthful Drivers

NEW YORK (AP) — Young drivers — 15 through 24 — kill and are killed more than any other group of drivers, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

"Among persons in this dangerous age span," the institute says, "highway crashes are the major single cause of death, equalling all other causes combined."

The death toll for this group last year was 18,000. The injured came to nearly one million.

These motorists constitute less than 20 per cent of the driving population, the institute notes. Yet, they comprise nearly one-third of the dead and injured.

Government data indicates teen-age drivers and others under the age of 25 consistently have more reported crashes and more citations per 100 drivers or per million miles traveled than do middle-aged drivers.

Crash reports also indicate young drivers have larger proportions of crashes of a kind that suggests reckless behavior — such as excessive speed or following too closely.

In addition, young drivers have the greatest proportion of citations for excessive speed and violations of laws governing vehicle equipment and registration.

"In short," said a U.S. Department of Transportation report, "the excessive involvement reported for young drivers in highway incidents, especially those apparently involving reckless behavior, seems to extend across the entire range of events, from citations through minor crashes to the most severe types of crashes."

The question is—why? There is an elusive "dark side" to this question that may take years of research to reveal. Some clues, however, have emerged in data assembled by the Department of Transportation for its study on "Causation, Culpability and Deterrence in Highway Crashes."

The report, according to the I.I.I., says the driving behavior of the young may be influenced by the following factors:

— The automobile offers the adolescent the only privacy available to him for carrying on a variety of social interactions which he is not permitted to carry on elsewhere.

— The car offers him a means of enjoying symbolically a number of satisfactions (risk-taking, status enhancement, demonstration of knowledge and virtuosity, etc.) which he cannot enjoy "in real life" because he is not yet a self-sufficient, occupation-involved adult.

— The auto offers him a degree of autonomy and social equality which he cannot enjoy otherwise because of his sub-adult status. The more severely he is restricted in these respects, the more likely he is to use the automobile as a compensatory mechanism and an emotional outlet.

The report suggests the possibility that young drivers may have disproportionate crash and citation rates not because they are young drivers, but because they are new drivers, who are necessarily at an early point in the learning curve.

Warden Discounts Ohio Pen Smuggling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The warden at Ohio Penitentiary says there is no chance of a prisoner smuggling a weapon brought in by a visitor past prison authorities.

Warden Harold Cardwell made the observation in the wake of the Saturday shoot-out in San Quentin prison in California, in which three prisoners and three guards died. San Quentin officials said the shooting began as guards were about to search prisoner George Jackson as he left the visiting room. Jackson, one of those killed, had a gun.

Cardwell said all prisoners at the Ohio Penitentiary "are stripped down and searched in a room off the visiting room" after visits. "You couldn't get a gun through there," he said.

Auto Crashes Claim Lives Of Many Youthful Drivers

NEW YORK (AP) — Young drivers — 15 through 24 — kill and are killed more than any other group of drivers, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

"Among persons in this dangerous age span," the institute says, "highway crashes are the major single cause of death, equalling all other causes combined."

The death toll for this group last year was 18,000. The injured came to nearly one million.

These motorists constitute less than 20 per cent of the driving population, the institute notes. Yet, they comprise nearly one-third of the dead and injured.

Government data indicates teen-age drivers and others under the age of 25 consistently have more reported crashes and more citations per 100 drivers or per million miles traveled than do middle-aged drivers.

Crash reports also indicate young drivers have larger proportions of crashes of a kind that suggests reckless behavior — such as excessive speed or following too closely.

In addition, young drivers have the greatest proportion of citations for excessive speed and violations of laws governing vehicle equipment and registration.

"In short," said a U.S. Department of Transportation report, "the excessive involvement reported for young drivers in highway incidents, especially those apparently involving reckless behavior, seems to extend across the entire range of events, from citations through minor crashes to the most severe types of crashes."

The question is — why? There is an elusive "dark side" to this question that may take years of research to reveal. Some clues, however, have emerged in data assembled by the Department of Transportation for its study on "Causation, Culpability and Deterrence in Highway Crashes."

The report, according to the I.I.I., says the driving behavior of the young may be influenced by the following factors:

— The automobile offers the adolescent the only privacy available to him for carrying on a variety of social interactions which he is not permitted to carry on elsewhere.

— The car offers him a means of enjoying symbolically a number of satisfactions (risk-taking, status enhancement, demonstration of knowledge and virtuosity, etc.) which he cannot enjoy "in real life" because he is not yet a self-sufficient, occupation-involved adult.

— The auto offers him a degree of autonomy and social equality which he cannot enjoy otherwise because of his sub-adult status. The more severely he is restricted in these respects, the more likely he is to use the automobile as a compensatory mechanism and an emotional outlet.

The report suggests the possibility that young drivers may have disproportionate crash and citation rates not because they are young drivers, but because they are new drivers, who are necessarily at an early point in the learning curve.

Warden Discounts Ohio Pen Smuggling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The warden at Ohio Penitentiary says there is no chance of a prisoner smuggling a weapon brought in by a visitor past prison authorities.

Warden Harold Cardwell made the observation in the wake of the Saturday shoot-out in San Quentin prison in California, in which three prisoners and three guards died. San Quentin officials said the shooting began as guards were about to search prisoner George Jackson as he left the visiting room. Jackson, one of those killed, had a gun.

Cardwell said all prisoners at the Ohio Penitentiary "are stripped down and searched in a room off the visiting room" after visits. "You couldn't get a gun through there," he said.

Sailor's Miamisburg Grave To Hold 'Unknown Soldier'

MIAMISBURG, Ohio (AP) — For five years a grave at Hillgrove Cemetery in this southwestern Ohio community has been marked by a tombstone bearing the inscription: "Mark V. Dennis, H.M. 3 U.S. Navy, Vietnam, Sept. 21, 1946-July 15, 1966."

Today, there will be a ceremony, replete with color guard and firing squad, to change the inscription to simply, "Unknown Soldier."

Five years ago, when a body was buried at the plot, Mrs. Charles Dennis accepted a U.S.

flag from the government on behalf of her family, believing the body to be that of her son.

Now, the Dennises no longer think the body is Mark's, and they are seeking a Navy board of inquiry into the case.

Their doubts began when a national news magazine published a photograph last November of a U.S. prisoner of war in Vietnam later identified by the Navy as Lt. Cmdr. Paul Galanti of Richmond, Va. The Dennises believed the picture was of their son.

Since then, Mark's brother Jerry says, the family has conceded that the photograph may have been of someone else. But he adds, "That's what started our questions, but it was only the start."

The family had the body exhumed and examined by two scientific experts who concluded in separate studies that the corpse was that of a man about 5-feet-4, Mark, according to his family, was 5-feet-11 the last time they saw him.

Naval sources originally said the body was identified by fingerprints and dog tags. But the badly burned corpse had no hands, and the scientists said the I.D. tags could not have been in the fire which charred it.

The Navy sent its own team of experts to exhumate the body a second time. Its 35-page report states that identification was confirmed by dental, blood type and body height comparisons with Mark Dennis' records.

Last week the Navy said, "Should Mark's parents decide to persist in a denial... we will, upon notarized request, remove the remains to a national cemetery for reinterment.

"The grave, we must insist, will bear a marker identifying it as the resting place of Mark V. Dennis."

Such will not be the case.

At 4 p.m. today the body will be laid to rest a third time at the Hillgrove Cemetery plot. Miamisburg Mayor Robert Means

Sr. will accept a second flag from the government, this one on behalf of the city.

An American Legion color guard and firing squad will participate in the full military funeral, with the Dennis family's blessings.

A stone bearing the "Unknown Soldier" inscription is being prepared and will be placed at the gravesite. The tombstone that carries Mark's name will be placed on an empty grave, and the death date removed.

Jerry Dennis says that after caring for the grave of the soldier for five years, the family "plans to keep on taking care of it."

Bolivians To Welcome Investment

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivia's new anti-Communist government has indicated that private investment will once again be welcome in the underdeveloped nation.

"We will give all guarantees to private initiative for capital investment in our country... to extricate Bolivia from underdevelopment," Finance Minister Raul Pelaez said after the new government's first cabinet meeting Monday.

The leftist-nationalist regime of Gen. Juan Jose Torres, which was overthrown last weekend, had nationalized U.S. mining interests in the country and approached the Soviet Union for aid.

In Washington, the State Department said it was studying the possibility of recognizing the new Bolivian government.

The sound of gunfire echoed through the streets of La Paz for a third night Monday as the government attempted to clean up armed opposition from radical left-wing students.

Armored cars and troops with heavy automatic weapons and bazookas returned the fire of student snipers shooting from the protection of buildings in the San Andres University area, a dozen blocks from downtown La Paz.

An undetermined number of student supporters of Torres held out in the area despite a ground and air attack Monday afternoon.

The Red Cross said five persons, including several passersby, were killed and 20 were wounded when troops opened fire with 50 caliber machine guns, and an air force P51 fighter strafed the 13-story main university building.

Wasp Removal Results In Barn Burning

An encounter with a wasp's nest resulted in a fire that destroyed a barn on the Mary Walker farm on McLean Mill Road 2:35 p.m. Monday.

Rick Sims, 313 S. Court St., was painting the 30 foot by 60 foot building when he encountered the nest of wasps.

According to the report in the Pickaway County Sheriff's office, Sims wrapped rags around a broom to burn out the intruders. He accidentally dropped the lighted match into some straw which set the building aflame.

Williamsport and Harrison Township Fire Departments fought the blaze, but were unable to save the barn.

In addition to the building, 1300 bales of straw and some farm machinery parts were also lost in the fire.

The extent of loss has not been determined at this time.

Williamsport Fire Department also responded to a call at 1:13 p.m. Monday when Ray Henson, Route 3, reported a car fire.

Henson said the car backfired through the carburetor causing the fire. The blaze had been extinguished when the firemen arrived.

Steelers Push, But Bengals Win Grid Clash, 20-13

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers applied the heat to the Cincinnati Bengals in the second half. Paul Brown strangely, liked it.

"Everything was a bowl of cherries in the first two games," Brown said after the Bengals escaped a second-half Steeler rally for their third straight National Football League exhibition win, a 20-13 decision Monday night.

The 1970 Central Division champions, who whipped Miami and Detroit in their first two preseason tests, ran into a different Steeler team after piling up a 20-3 halftime bulge.

Terry Bradshaw, Pittsburgh's controversial rookie quarterback of 1970, was the difference when he took over in the second half. He led the Steeler on a 10-point third quarter and had them driving for the tying touchdown in the last minute.

Bradshaw, who completed 8 of 14 passes for 127 yards, fumbled and Bengals linebacker Bill Bergey recovered on the Cincinnati 38-yard line to end the threat.

Bradshaw was hit in the solar plexus on the fumble and Coach Chuck Noll didn't think the injury was serious.

"Remember, he broke an arm here last year. But he'll show them something in this town yet," vowed Noll, whose team is 1-1.

Brown liked the idea of Noll going with his regulars in the second half.

"They took it to us in the second half with their front liners. We needed it," Brown said.

"You see how quiet those players are, even though they won. They found out it isn't going to be easy. And you can see there's going to be some real huddling between these two teams," he said.

Virgil Carter, who led the Bengals to seven straight victories and the Central Division title in their third season last year, engineered the triumph.

The Chicago Bears and Buffalo Bills' castoff, picked up in a pre-season deal last year, hit 19 of 27 passes for 191 yards and a 10-yard touchdown to Bob Trumpy.

Doug Dressler also scored on a 35-yard run and Horst Muhlman booted field goals of 42 and 16 yards as the Bengals built a 20-0 lead in the first 27 minutes.

Paul Rogers kicked two field goals for Pittsburgh, the first a 45-yarder that hit the cross bar and bounced over with three minutes left in the second quarter. Rogers also had a 22-yard goal in the third period.

Bradshaw scored Pittsburgh's only touchdown, a one-yard plunge in the third quarter.

COLLISION COURSE — A try for a fly ball hit by the Twins' Cesar Tovar set the stage for this spectacular collision at Bloomington, Minn., between Mickey Stanley (on ground) and Dick McAuliffe of the Tigers. McAuliffe caught the ball but Stanley was carried off the field with a concussion. McAuliffe also left the game.

Tigers Top Minnesota Twins, 4-2

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Welcome home, Dick McAuliffe, you've been away too long.

After a season of ups and downs, mostly downs, the Detroit second baseman is prospering with a home plate-hugging hitting style.

"Right now, I feel I can hit anything—outside or inside," exclaimed McAuliffe after slugging a three-run homer in Detroit's 4-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins Monday night.

McAuliffe also had a double, his sixth hit in the last three games, to bring his batting average up to .206. That may not seem like much, but it's not bad considering he was only hitting .180 a month ago.

"I was in a bad slump because I was pulling away from the ball," declared McAuliffe, who was a .253 lifetime hitter before this year. "But I knew what I was doing wrong—and I corrected it."

Instead of backing off, McAuliffe dug in and leaned on home plate with a newfound aggressive determination that exploded into a three-hit day Saturday and one Sunday before Monday night's game.

In the American League's only other contest, the Oakland A's pounded the New York Yankees 8-2.

Despite his embarrassing batting average, McAuliffe has made his 79 hits count. He's got 16 home runs and 53 runs batted in—not bad for a .200 hitter.

Detroit Manager Billy Martin kept the faith all along, even if McAuliffe didn't. "I always had the confidence in him, even though he was down on himself," said Martin. "He's aggressive with the bat now."

Tommy Davis, rookie Angel Mangual and Dick Green each knocked in two runs and Chuck Dobson notched his 13th victory as runaway Oakland bounced

New York and moved its Western Division lead to 16 games over second place Kansas City.

Davis contributed run-scoring grounders to two rallies—a three-run fourth inning and a three-run seventh. Mangual doubled home two in the seventh and Green had a sacrifice fly in the fourth and his 12th homer in the eighth inning.

Auburn Eyes Championship

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Auburn's scoring combination of quarterback Pat Sullivan and split end Terry Beasley hope to attain a goal their senior year that has eluded them their first two seasons — win the Southeastern Conference championship.

With 32 lettermen returning, the Tigers are hopeful of bettering their last two 8-2 seasons and third place finishes in the SEC.

Auburn supporters are not the only ones to think the team can capture the crown. The SEC head coaches have already picked the Tigers to lead the conference.

However, Coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan, who is starting his 21st season at his alma mater, believes the other head coaches have put his team on the spot. But he feels his players will accept the challenge and work to achieve that goal.

Jordan said, "Our team has been close to the championship the last two years and played in two bowls and they know it will take a little more effort to finish on top."

Jordan feels the schedule does not exactly favor the Tigers, with them taking on Tennessee in Knoxville, Tenn., early and Georgia in Athens, Ga., late.

One of the Tiger losses in 1969 was to Tennessee, 45-19, and Georgia defeated the Tigers, 31-17, last season. The other, loss both seasons was to LSU, but the Bengal Tigers were skipped this season.

victory, hitting 19 of 27 passes yard scoring strike to Bob for 191 yards, including a 10- Trumpy.

SO WHAT'S UNUSUAL ABOUT THIS?—Well, it's a volleyball game between U.S. and Mexican players—but in Havana, Cuba. The U.S. is competing for a North American zone qualifying berth to the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich after losing to the Cuban team in the finals of the Pan-American Games. The U.S. team, including 12 players, three coaches, a doctor, trainer and three U.S. newsmen, received a cordial reception on arrival.

Highlights in World of Sports

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Nick Mileti pleaded his case to the people of Richfield Township Monday night, speaking for more than an hour on the merits of a $17 million sports coliseum he proposes to build on a 106-acre site in the northern Summit County community.

The township's board of zoning appeals will decide on the validity of his appeal at another meeting.

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — "We knew the assignments but weren't executing as well as we should have," Coach Nick Skorich of the Cleveland Browns said Monday after viewing the film of the 16-15 loss to Dallas.

"There was physical breakdown here and there, just enough to spoil some good work by most of the players."

The coach wasn't too pleased with the protection given quarterbacks Bill Nelsen and Mike Phipps.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The captain of the U.S. Wightman Cup tennis team gambled and chose a 16-year-old she had never seen to be one of her players and it proved to be the decisive reason the U.S. won its 36th Cup in 43 tries here Monday.

The teen-ager, Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., stopped Britain's top player, Virginia Wade, 6-1, 6-1, for the clinching victory. Miss Evert, the youngest player ever to appear in the cup competition, had defeated Winnie Shaw, 6-0, 6-4 in the first match Saturday.

Gates is being counted on to bolster the squad at the weak side linebacker spot. He moved up to Northwest Missouri after spending two years as a member of the Centerville Junior College team.

The Bearcats are preparing for the opening game when they meet the Indians of the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Gates was a performer for the undefeated 1967 Circleville Tigers where he was selected to the South Central Ohio all-league team.

He is the son of Betty Gates, 290 Lewis Road, and the late Roscoe Gates.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, who are struggling along in the cellar of the American League East, meet the West Division cellar dwellers when the Milwaukee Brewers come to town tonight.

The two clubs tangled a week and a half ago, with the Brewers winning three straight. That boosted their season record against the Indians to 6-3.

Brewers Manager Dave Bristol will return to action after being suspended for five games by League President Joe Cronin following an altercation with umpire Art Frantz.

Bill Gates Set At NW Missouri

Steelers Looking For Improved Offense

By D. BYRON YAKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers may become a winner if the offense finally matches the defense.

"We have lacked the offensive weapons in the past," says Coach Chuck Noll. "We've never had a Gale Sayers, and we've always been known as a physical team."

"But I see this as a year of great progress for us. There is no reason now why we can't be in the thick of things."

The Steelers have not had a winning season since 1963. In 38 years, they have never won a championship. Last year they were 5-9 and finished in third place in the Central Division of the American Conference.

Terry Bradshaw, the top draft choice in 1970, was a zealous rookie quarterback last season. Terry Hanratty was in his second season. Their combined passing percentage of 39 per cent reflected their lack of experience.

"Our quarterbacks are much further ahead of last year," said Noll. "This is the area I expect the most improvement."

However, the Steelers' rushing game remains questionable.

John Fuqua, who rushed for 691 yards last year, mostly in the last half of the season, was a pleasant surprise. And he is being counted on heavily this year to carry the brunt of the attack.

Warren Bankston could take up slack of the retirement of Dick Hoak if he can stay healthy. He was out most of last season with injuries.

But defense should be the Steelers' strong point again. Last year, the Steelers allowed only eight touchdowns by rushing, 12 by passing.

Joe Greene and Chuck Hinton are the keys to the interior line but 6-foot-5 L. C. Greenwood will see more action this season at left defensive end. Rookie Dwight White shows promise on the right side and may give Ben McGee a battle.

Mount Healthy Wins Babe Ruth Contest

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The Mount Healthy, Ohio, team posted its second victory in the Babe Ruth World Series Monday night, defeating St. Paul, Minn., 5-4.

Buckeye hurler Mark Naehring claimed the win with 10 strikeouts. Mount Healthy came from four runs behind to score five in the fifth inning.

Baron Boyd Victor At Scioto Downs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Baron Boyd came from fifth at the half to win the featured eighth race at Scioto Downs Monday night. He took the $1,100, one-mile race in 2:04 3-5, paying $6.80, $4.80 and $5.40.

Gay Irish placed for $11.60 and $8.20, while it was Little Berry at show to bring in $6.20.

An interesting fight may develop at the left-backer spot between rookie Jack Ham of Penn State and veteran Henry Davis.

Rookies Mike Wagner and Glen Edwards will see plenty of action in the defensive back field and Edwards may have won a job as a kickoff and punt return specialist on the basis of his performance in the Steelers' first preseason game. He returned two kickoffs 50 and 51 yards and had a 95-yard punt return called back because of a clipping penalty.

Expos Turn Back Los Angeles; Win 12-6

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The hottest team in the National League wins even in cold weather.

Montreal's fired-up Expos ignored some gusty breezes and warmed up their Canadian faithful Monday night with a 12-6 victory over Los Angeles that gave them an eight-game winning streak, their best ever.

Elsewhere in the National League Monday, Pittsburgh belted Atlanta twice 15-4 and 4-3 to open a five-game lead in the East Division, Chicago dumped Cincinnati 6-3, San Francisco topped New York 5-4, St. Louis nipped Houston 3-2 and Philadelphia dropped San Diego 3-1.

The Canadian cool agreed with Boots Day and Rusty Staub, who destroyed the Dodgers with nine runs batted in between them.

Day had a two-run single in the second inning and a two-run homer in the fourth as Montreal built an early lead. Staub drove in an early run with a sacrifice fly and then climaxed Montreal's assault with a grand slam homer in the eighth, giving him five RBIs for the night.

Los Angeles, which slipped 7½ games back of San Francisco in the West Division race, grabbed an early 3-0 lead with Pitcher Don Sutton driving in two of the runs.

But the Expos bounced back with five runs to grab the lead in the second inning with John Bateman's bases-loaded single chasing the first two across and then Day's single and Staub's sacrifice fly capping the rally.

Day tagged his two-run homer in the fourth and Ron Fairly followed the issue with his bases-loaded blast in the eighth.

The Giants took advantage of Montreal's victory over the pursuing Dodgers by beating the Mets and adding another game to their West Division edge.

Bobby Bonds paced the Giants' victory, hammering a homer and a double to lead the attack. Jerry Johnson came out of the bullpen to save the victory for rookie Don Carrithers, 3-2. It was the 14th save for Johnson, ace of the Giant bullpen. He also had 12 victories.

Bonds' 24th homer helped the Giants to an early 3-0 edge, then he doubled in one run and scored another in the sixth as the lead built to 5-0. The Mets kayoed Carrithers in the bottom of the sixth but Johnson shut off the rally and held New York at Bay after that.

Pittsburgh snapped out of an extended slump with its sweep against Atlanta.

Manny Sanguillen drove in two runs with a double and scored two others as the Pirates took their first game. Then Pittsburgh resorted to the long ball with Al Oliver crashing two homers and Roberto Clemente and Bob Robertson adding one apiece in the nightcap.

Oliver's triple and Clemente's 13th homer of the year were the big blows in a five-run third inning that put Pittsburgh in control in the second game.

Oliver finished with four hits in the game and called the sweep "a big thing for the club."

The sweep enabled Pittsburgh to gain one-half game on pursuing Chicago. The Cubs whipped Cincinnati in a day game with Juan Pizarro's five-hitter doing the job.

Ron Santo ripped three hits and drove in three runs for Chicago and Cleo James also had three hits including a two-run homer.

Bob Gibson pitched a seven-hitter and drove in the winning run with a ninth inning single as the Cardinals beat Houston, tagging Don Wilson with his first loss since July 18.

Hot-hitting Joe Torre drove in the first two Cardinal runs with a single and a double but the Astros rallied to tie the score before Gibson's ninth inning hit decided it.

Tim McCarver doubled home two runs and Rick Wise pitched Philadelphia past San Diego.

McCarver's fifth inning double snapped a scoreless tie and Willie Montanez drove in the Phillies' other run with a sixth-inning single as Wise won his 13th game.

Steelers Push, But Bengals Win Grid Clash, 20-13

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers applied the heat to the Cincinnati Bengals in the second half. Paul Brown strangely, liked it.

"Everything was a bowl of cherries in the first two games," Brown said after the Bengals escaped a second-half Steelers rally for their third straight National Football League exhibition win, a 20-13 decision Monday night.

The 1970 Central Division champions, who whipped Miami and Detroit in their first two preseason tests, ran into a different Steeler team after piling up a 20-3 halftime bulge.

Terry Bradshaw, Pittsburgh's controversial rookie quarterback of 1970, was the difference when he took over in the second half. He led the Steeler on a 10-point third quarter and had them driving for the tying touchdown in the last minute.

Bradshaw, who completed 8 of 14 passes for 127 yards, fumbled and Bengals linebacker Bill Bergey recovered on the Cincinnati 38-yard line to end the threat.

Bradshaw was hit in the solar plexus on the fumble and helped from the field. Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll didn't think the injury was serious.

"Remember, he broke an arm here last year. But he'll show them something in this town yet," vowed Noll, whose team is 1-1.

Brown liked the idea of Noll going with his regulars in the second half.

"They took it to us in the second half with their front liners. We needed it," Brown said.

"You see how quiet those players are, even though they won. They found out it isn't going to be easy. And you can see there's going to be some real huddling between these two teams," he said.

Virgil Carter, who led the Bengals to seven straight victories and the Central Division title in their third season last year, engineered the triumph.

The Chicago Bears and Buffalo Bills' castoff, picked up in a pre-season deal last year, hit 19 of 27 passes for 191 yards and a 10-yard touchdown to Bob Trumpy.

Doug Dressler also scored on a 35-yard run and Horst Muhlman booted field goals of 42 and 36 yards as the Bengals built a 20-0 lead in the first 27 minutes.

Paul Rogers kicked two field goals for Pittsburgh, the first a 45-yarder that hit the cross bar and bounced over with three minutes left in the second quarter. Rogers also had a 22-yard goal in the third period.

Bradshaw scored Pittsburgh's only touchdown, a one-yard plunge in the third quarter.

COLLISION COURSE — A try for a fly ball hit by the Twins' Cesar Tovar set the stage for this spectacular collision at Bloomington, Minn., between Mickey Stanley (on ground) and Dick McAuliffe of the Tigers. McAuliffe caught the ball but Stanley was carried off the field with a concussion. McAuliffe also left the game.

Tigers Top Minnesota Twins, 4-2

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Welcome home, Dick McAuliffe, you've been away too long.

After a season of ups and downs, mostly downs, the Detroit second baseman is prospering with a home plate-hugging hitting style.

"Right now, I feel I can hit anything—outside or inside," exclaimed McAuliffe after slugging a three-run homer in Detroit's 4-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins Monday night.

McAuliffe also had a double, his sixth hit in the last three games, to bring his batting average up to .206. That may not seem like much, but it's not bad considering he was only hitting .180 a month ago.

"I was in a bad slump because I was pulling away from the ball," declared McAuliffe, who was a .253 lifetime hitter before this year. "But I knew what I was doing wrong—and I corrected it."

Instead of backing off, McAuliffe dug in and leaned on home plate with a newfound aggressive determination that exploded into a three-hit day Saturday and one Sunday before Monday night's game.

In the American League's only other contest, the Oakland A's pounded the New York Yankees 8-2.

Despite his embarrassing batting average, McAuliffe has made his 79 hits count. He's got 16 home runs and 53 runs batted in—not bad for a .200 hitter.

Quarterbacks Scarce Item As Pro Teams Practice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New Orleans Saints aren't taking any chances with their No. 1 draft choice. The San Francisco 49ers are wondering what happened to theirs.

The Saints, winless in National Football League preseason play, began practice Monday for their fourth game, Saturday night at San Diego, but did so without quarterback Archie Manning.

Their top pick from Mississippi, who suffered a foot injury in last weekend's loss to Kansas City, will be kept out of training "until it is completely well," a team spokesman said.

He said Manning is walking normally but has been advised by doctors to rest the foot as much as possible.

The Saints also did without another quarterback. They traded Jim Ward to the Philadelphia Eagles for cornerback Richard Harvey.

The 49ers, meanwhile, will have to do without Tim Anderson for a long, long time.

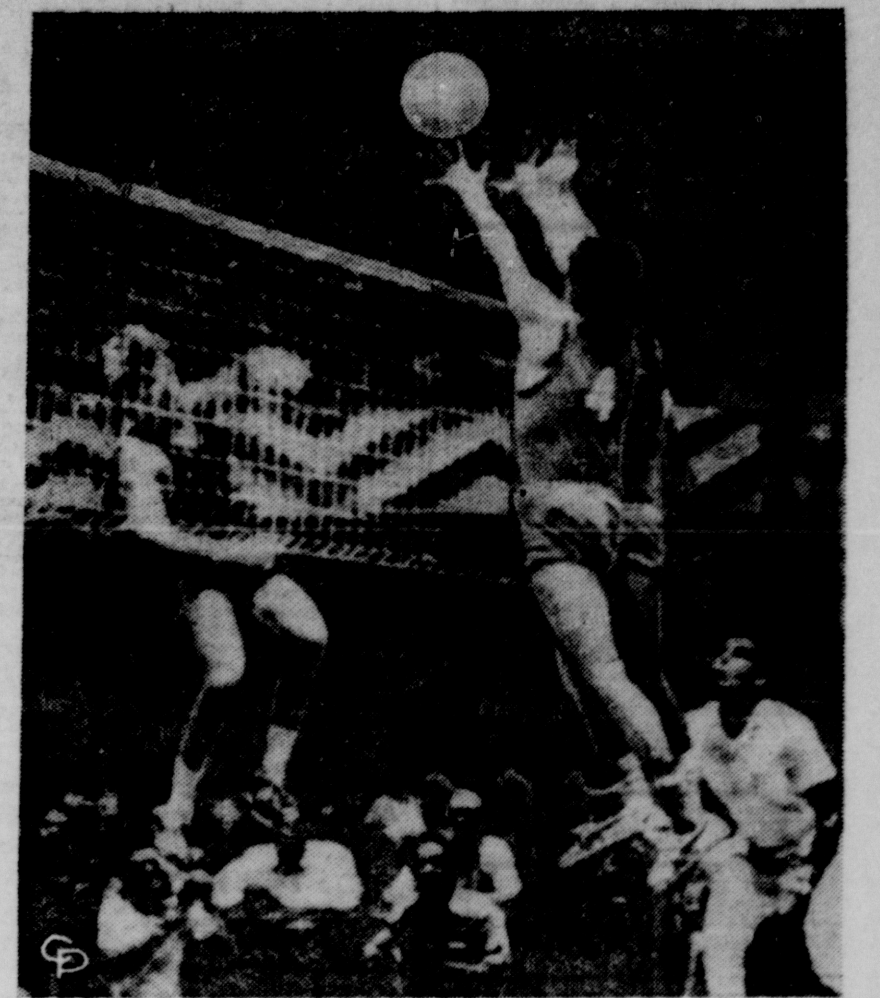

Their top draft selection, a 22-year-old defensive back from Ohio State University, turned up in Toronto Monday as the newest member of the Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.

He was introduced by Coach Leo Cahill, the persuasive recruiter who has already lured four other United States stars—quarterbacks Joe Theismann and Greg Barton, running back Leon McQuay and defensive lineman Jim Stillwagon—across the border.

Cincinnati turned up with something nice, too—an early display of offensive power and a solid fourth-quarter defense that brought the Bengals a 20-13 triumph over Pittsburgh in Monday night's only exhibition action.

Virgil Carter engineered the victory, hitting 19 of 27 passes yard scoring strike to Bob for 191 yards, including a 10- Trumpy.

SO WHAT'S UNUSUAL ABOUT THIS?—Well, it's a volleyball game between U.S. and Mexican players—but in Havana, Cuba. The U.S. is competing for a North American zone qualifying berth to the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich after losing to the Cuban team in the finals of the Pan-American Games. The U.S. team, including 12 players, three coaches, a doctor, trainer and three U.S. newsmen, received a cordial reception on arrival.

Jon Kolb, John Brown and Rick Sharp form the nucleus of the offensive line at the tackle spots.

Frank Lewis, the club's top draft choice in 1971, will team with Ron Shanklin at the wide receiver positions.

Last year, the Steelers split victories with their three-divisional opponents.

"We have to win both games with them this year," said Noll. "That's the only way we can expect to do well in our division."

Best Actress At Cannes

Plays Young Heroin Addict

By PEACE STERLING

AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a 10-to-1 bet the people in the restaurant didn't have the slightest notion they were having lunch next to the actress who had recently won the best actress award at the 1971 Cannes Film Festival — because Kitty Winn, who stars in "Panic in Needle Park," doesn't look the slightest bit like a movie star.

With her freckled face, wispy hair tied back in a bun, blue jeans and soft voice, she looks more like a girl fresh out of high school, which she isn't — she's in her mid 20's — and more like the daughter of an Army officer, which she is.

When she learned about winning the prize for best actress, she was in her hotel room at Cannes. "My younger sister was with me, and we had spent the whole day in the country with some friends," Miss Winn recounts. "When we got back to the room, I was lying on the bed, kind of thinking of packing, when a reporter who had interviewed me came to the door. "He told my sister, in French that I'd won a prize, but she didn't understand," Miss Winn continues. "But he finally explained it was the Grand Prix. It was just lucky I was lying down so I couldn't fall on the floor."

"Panic in Needle Park" was her first film. She plays the part of a young heroin addict, and it was quite a switch from her last role, "St. Joan," with San Francisco's American Conservatory Theatre.

"When I read the script, I knew nothing about heroin addiction," Miss Winn says. "My original response had to do with how irresponsible you are towards yourself if you take drugs. And then I started thinking about how you're also irresponsible to other people in that situation. The girl in the film takes drugs because her boyfriend is hooked and she senses his need for the drug is a lot greater than his need for her.

She naively feels that if she takes the drug, they'll be together."

To help Miss Winn understand the role, Producer Dominick Dunne introduced her to a former addict from one of New York City's rehabilitation centers. After knowing her, grasping some of the problems that can lead to addiction and working in the film, the actress has come up with some concerns of her own about drugs.

"First of all I learned I'm not interested in drugs. To me it's a nothing existence, and one has an eternity to be nothing," she says quietly. "I learned that their life is boring, and that the reality of taking drugs is much more horrible than the reality they have to face in this world. And it's a lonely existence — even lonelier than the one they left."

"At 16, kids may feel they have a few years to throw away," Miss Winn continues. "But it isn't throwing away a few years — it's throwing away a life."

Miss Winn's own life has been

Pizarro, who has spent more than a decade hurling in both the American and National Leagues may have won a No. 4 called from Tacoma July 5.

James banged three hits including a two-run homer as leadoff replacement for ben-ched shortstop Don Kessinger, and veteran Ron Santo's three

RBI's on a single and one of his two doubles. Cooled off the Big Red Machine which has been destructing the top National League east contenders.

Up until yesterday's opener of a three-game set with the Cubs, the Reds had won eight of their last 10 games against the Pirates, Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals.

Less Icebergs In North Atlantic

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — There are fewer icebergs in the heavily traveled areas of the North Atlantic this year, reports the U.S. Coast Guard Patrol.

usually frequent southern winds which affected the ocean's temperature so that the icebergs deteriorated as they drifted down Baffin Bay.

Best Actress At Cannes Plays Young Heroin Addict

By PEACE STERLING

AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a 10-to-1 bet the people in the restaurant didn't have the slightest notion they were having lunch next to the actress who had recently won the best actress award at the 1971 Cannes Film Festival — because Kitty Winn, who stars in "Panic at Needle Park," doesn't look the slightest bit like a movie star.

When she learned about winning the prize for best actress, she was in her hotel room at Cannes. "My younger sister was with me, and we had spent the whole day in the country with some friends," Miss Winn recounts. "When we got back to the room, I was lying on the bed, kind of thinking of packing, when a reporter who had interviewed me came to the door."

"He told my sister, in French that I'd won a prize, but she didn't understand," Miss Winn continues. "But he finally explained it was the Grand Prix. It was just lucky I was lying down so I couldn't fall on the floor."

"Panic in Needle Park" was her first film. She plays the part of a young heroin addict, and it was quite a switch from greater than his need for her. her last role, "St. Joan," with San Francisco's American Conservatory Theatre.

"When I read the script, I knew nothing about heroin addiction," Miss Winn says. "My original response had to do with how irresponsible you are towards yourself if you take drugs. And then I started thinking about how you're also irresponsible to other people in that situation. The girl in the film takes drugs because her boyfriend is hooked and she senses his need for the drug is a lot

She naively feels that if she takes the drug, they'll be together."

To help Miss Winn understand the role, Producer Dominick Dunne introduced her to a former addict from one of New York City's rehabilitation centers. After knowing her, grasping some of the problems that can lead to addiction and working in the film, the actress has come up with some concerns of her own about drugs.

"First of all I learned I'm not interested in drugs. To me it's a nothing existence, and one has an eternity to be nothing," she says quietly. "I learned that their life is boring, and that the reality of taking drugs is much more horrible than the reality they have to face in this world. And it's a lonely existence — even lonelier than the one they left."

"At 16, kids may feel they have a few years to throw away," Miss Winn continues. "But it isn't throwing away a few years — it's throwing away a life."

Miss Winn's own life has been packed with good experiences — travel — she has lived in Europe and the Far East; education — at Boston University where she studied drama; and acting in San Francisco.

Intelligent and deliberate in her conversation, Miss Winn admits there are times when she thinks she doesn't want to be an actress, and it is, in fact, easy to see that Kitty Winn would much prefer than playing her own role rather than fulfilling anybody else's image of what a glamorous, prize-winning movie star should be.

They sighted only 61 bergs, attributing the low count to unusually frequent southern winds which affected the ocean's temperature so that the icebergs deteriorated as they drifted down Baffin Bay.

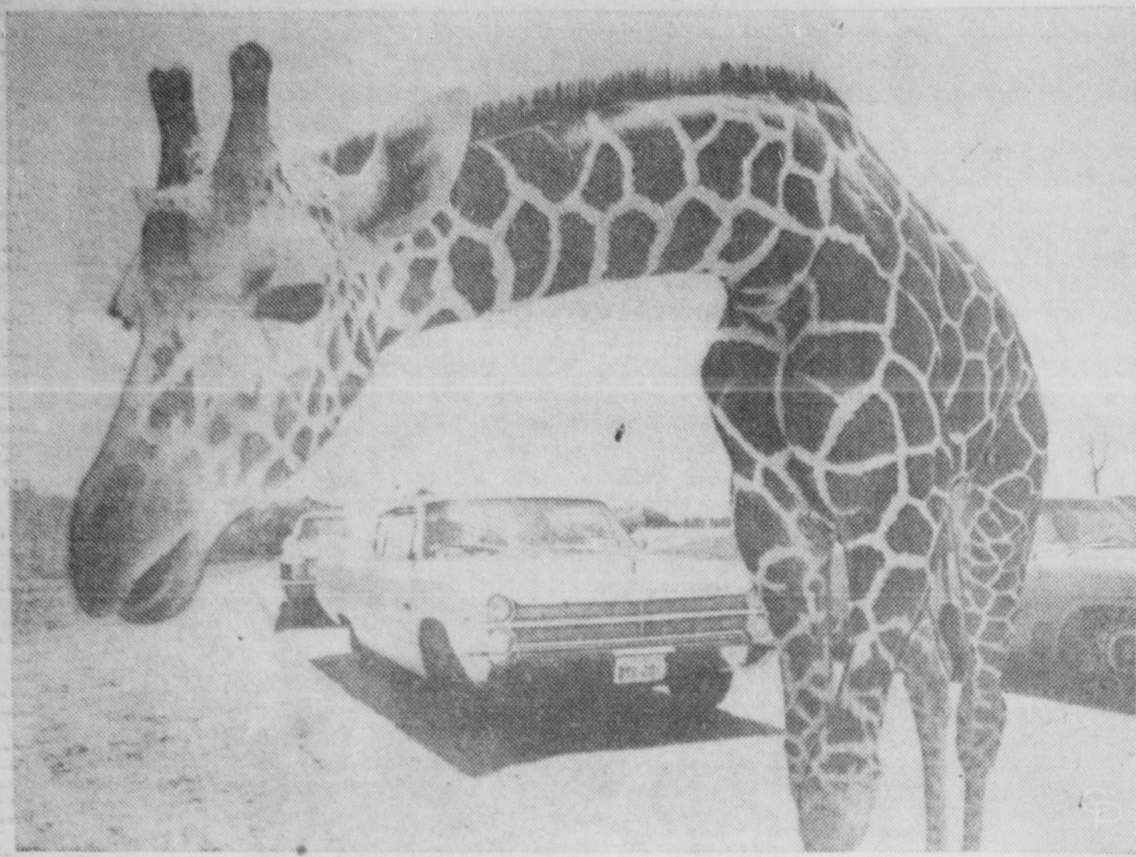

BASEBALL MARKET SOARS, TOO—On a day when the stock market soared in its best day in history, the baseball market soared, too, as you can see. From top to bottom we have infielder Fred Stanley of the Indians, flying over Rich Reese of the Twins in Bloomington, Minn.; the Pirates' Richie Hebner trying to make a play on Jesus Alou of the Astros in Pittsburgh and Red Sox catcher Bob Montgomery taking off after tagging the Angels' Sandy Alomar in a run-down play in Boston.

Deficit To Be High Despite Economic Shift By President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon envisages his new economic strategy paying for itself, saving about $500 million more than it costs. But administration sources say that still would leave a fiscal 1972 deficit of about $20 billion.

They say if Congress wants a more expansionary policy, the red ink could match the towering 1971 deficit of $23.2 billion.

Influential lawmakers already are talking about bigger tax benefits for consumers and objecting to the President's proposed 5-per-cent federal payroll cut, largely through attribution. Some have proposed also postponing the next Social Security tax increase scheduled Jan. 1 under a House-passed bill.

The proposed actions could bring about a fiscal 1972 deficit nearly double the $11.5 billion Nixon estimated in February when he sent his budget message to Congress.

The turnaround in economic strategy he announced on Aug. 15 entails revenue losses totaling $6.3 billion in the fiscal year that began July 1, officials estimate. This is the breakdown:

—Speedup of increases in personal tax exemptions and standard exemptions, $1 billion.

—Repeal of 7-per cent auto excise tax, $2.3 billion.

—Restoration of 10-per-cent investment tax credit, $3 billion.

Offsetting measures announced by Nixon include new revenue-raising measures and cost reductions totaling $6.8 billion. These are:

—Income from new 10-per-cent import surcharge, $2.1 billion.

—Budget cuts including a 5-per-cent reduction in federal employment, proposed postponement of welfare reform and revenue sharing, a 10-per-cent cut in foreign aid, and a six-month postponement of the government pay increase scheduled for Jan. 1. Total, $4.7 billion.

If the President can persuade Congress to buy this whole package unchanged, one administration aide predicts, "We can keep the fiscal 1972 deficit below the $23.2 billion of last year."

Some alterations are almost sure to come, however. While legislators generally have endorsed the program, many have been critical of what they contend are inordinate tax benefits to business as opposed to direct tax relief for individual taxpayers, and the planned cutbacks in federal spending and employment.

If the Social Security bill awaiting Senate action becomes law in its present form, many families would have a net increase in taxes next year instead of a reduction.

Ohio Senate . .

(Continued from Page 1) announced an austerity program of his own for the state if he doesn't have a budget by Sept. 1. Republicans have called it "a sham, a child's approach."

The freeze on employment announced by Gilligan, critics comment, would amount to nothing since most of the people to be furloughed have been added to the rolls since he took office.

Normal legislative activity, meanwhile, has almost ground to a halt while the tax-budget issue remains unsettled.

A House Environmental and Natural Resources subcommittee, for example, could do little but talk about a comprehensive bill to regulate strip mining during a late Monday night session.

Only three of the six subcommittee members were on hand. Among those absent was the bill's chief sponsor, Rep. Sam Speck, R-29 New Concord, who has called it "the toughest strip mine legislation in the nation."

The Senate in floor action Monday passed two bills—one providing the same type kidney dialysis benefits to outpatients as to those in a hospital, and the other empowering the Department of Agriculture to police commodity dealers and warehousemen.

Big Steel Stirs Again

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The steel industry, financially troubled keystone of the nation's economy, is beginning to rustle with signs of a turnaround after its worst slump in more than a decade.

Whether the upswing will last is in question, but industry sources say they believe the stirring will gather steam if President Nixon's new economic policies take hold.

"We're not out of the woods yet, not by any means," says one industry insider. "But this is the first time in years that anybody has been able to detect a note of optimism in the front office. Oh, the note is faint, certainly. It's like a giant barely twitching in his sleep. But we think that perhaps, just perhaps, the giant may be on his way to waking up."

Words like that haven't even been whispered around steel company board rooms since the mid 1960s, when the entire economy was bubbling along on a spending spurt created in large measure by the Vietnam war.

In the late 1960s, in fact, well before the economy dipped into the sluggish slump that has prompted the President's wage-price-rent freeze and related steps, industry leaders were fearful of the future.

Clinic Closes Until October

There will be no more therapy sessions at the Pickaway County Speech and hearing center until October it was announced today by Mrs. M. C. Kirkwood, executive secretary of the Pickaway County Crippled Children's Society.

The reopening date will be set later.

Post-Freeze

Meanwhile, the Cost of Living Council issued new guidelines on who is affected by the freeze.

Nonunion white-collar workers may receive wage increases tied to union contracts, the council ruled, provided the agreement was signed before Aug. 15 and the hike was scheduled to go into effect the same day as the union increase. The decision apparently was aimed at the steel industry.

The council held also that utility fees and other government services may not be increased during the 90-day period, and banks are barred from jacking up service charges and other fees.

License fees and legal penalties such as traffic fines are not frozen.

The Agriculture Department designated Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation offices in most counties to receive freeze inquiries from rural citizens. ASCS offices will answer questions and forward complaints to the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Committee urged the President to roll back the prime interest rate from 6 per cent to 5 1/4. He termed "a light tap on the wrist with a velvet hammer" Treasury Secretary Connally's appeal for lending institutions to exercise voluntary restraint.

Patman also urged elimination of points and discounts on home mortgages, reduction in down payments and interest controls on small loans.
